HOPES FOR PEACE BRIGHTEN AS HITLER GETS NEW BRITISH PLAN

CITY STUDIES NEW RELIEF CREDIT PLAN

System Used in Stark County to Finance Problem Taken Up at Session Today.

HOPE TO 'DIG UP' $50,000

Calls for Issuance of Notes Against Anticipated State Taxes.

City officials, who have been facing the problem of relief financing for the past seven months, were to meet with County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe this afternoon to discuss a new financing angle—one which was used in Stark county and calls for a credit plan of matching state funds

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, who spent yesterday in Canton studying the plan, said he would lay the credit financing angle before the auditor with the hope that a credit of $50,000 could be "dug up" to be applied for matching state funds now available.

Explains Borrowing Plan.

Nist explained that the plan used by Stark county officials calls for the issuance of notes against anticipated state taxes equal to the amount of state funds already spent by the city this year for relief and the amount to be spent the remainder of 1938.

These funds include money already received from beer, malt, and admission taxes for the first eight months of 1938 together with the money anticipated for the last four months which will amount to approximately $6,000; an $8,500 allocation already approved by the state tax commission from the stop-gap relief fund; balances in the county relief fund, sales tax surpluses due the county since the first of the year and a credit of $5,000 spent by the city for indigent hospitalization.

'Credits' Unknown.

He pointed out that city officials were "in the dark" as to just what amount could be used for credits and it was for this reason that they had asked for the meeting.

Nist said that state funds were distributed on a county basis and that the city's share was determined on 63 per cent of the total, based on the relief load

Besides Nist, attending the meeting will be Mayor Claude M. Hunter and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley, who will also take up the matter of the city's budget which was trimmed $55,000 by the county budget commission recently.

Kelley said that he felt that some changes in the various funds should be made to make the budget more flexible for all concerned.

The city requested $302,440 for operating purposes for next year. The commission cut the amount to $247,000 or $347 more than was allowed for operating expenses this year.

Dollar To Be 'King' Tomorrow, Stores Mark 'Dollar Day'

Tomorrow will be one of the big days of Fall Display week for Mansfield merchants participating in the display event, for it will be "Dollar Day."

Merchants have designated the day as the one during the week on which special values will be offered for a dollar, and almost every line of business is offering dollar bargains tomorrow.

As Mansfield's annual Fall Display Week got under way yesterday, windows of the 44 participating merchants drew the attention of hundreds of persons in the downtown district.

In addition to new fall merchandise, hobby collections belonging to Mansfield people are now being displayed for the first time.

The misspelled word contest also centered attention on display windows, for there was a placard in each window which announced the hobby collection and owner, and which contained a misspelled word. To enter the contest, contestants must secure entry blanks from merchants, fill them out, write a short paragraph of not more than 25 words on "Why I Should Make It a Hobby To Shop In Mansfield," and send them to the Retail Merchants association, Farmers Bank building, before Saturday nuight.

City Flocks to Radios to Hear Hitler

Record Audience Listens, Turns Anxious Eyes to War-Scared Europe.

The clock of Father Time turned back 24 years yesterday afternoon as Mansfield once more turned attentive ears and anxious eyes toward Europe from whence came the rumble of war alarms.

It is probable that not even a president of the United States ever had a wider or more interested radio audience than that which listened yesterday to the defiant, world-challenging speech of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at Berlin, in which he notified the world that the Germany of today was not the crushed, conquered Germany of 20 years ago.

While Mansfielders of 1914 did not get their European news directly from the mouth of national leaders by way of radio, they were just as interested, just as eager for last minute news as those who gathered yesterday in downtown business places, in homes, around radio-equipped cars at curbstones.

Up and down Main street, Walnut and the cross streets, groups of people listened yesterday to Hitler's speech. Opinions varied and were expressed while Hitler talked in a language that few could understand, but the minute the interpreter cut in with the English version of each statement, there was silence as everyone tried to get the import of the historical speech from across the ocean.

"Looks like war this time," a veteran of the World war said, listening to an auto radio . . . "Hitler's bluffing; now that England, France and Russia have called his bluff and put it squarely up to him to fight or back down, he'll back down." . . . Don't you think it—when did that cocky little——ever back down?" . . . They can fight all they please over there—I'll stay home and wave a flag." . . . "I vowed I'd never leave this country again to fight for Europe—but somebody has to lick the pants off that guy and I wouldn't mind having a hand in it." . . .

It all sounded vaguely familiar to anyone who remembered the sentiment that flared in America during the World war against another German war lord.

In hundreds of Mansfield homes, others were listening. What the Hunter's Plan for Overpass to Be Put on State List.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter's plan for an overpass at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad on West Fourth street gained impetus today as the state highway department called for a list of all grade crossings in the city.

In a letter to the mayor, it was explained that the state highway department and the U. S. bureau of public roads were engaged in a state-wide survey of all crossings with the hope of establishing protection for all important grade crossings.

The department asked the mayor to forward a list of all crossings in the city which he felt should be considered for elimination.

Hunter said the West Fourth street plan would be placed at the "top of the list" along with the East Fourth street grade crossing as both are on the Lincoln highway, one of the most heavily travelled routes in the state.

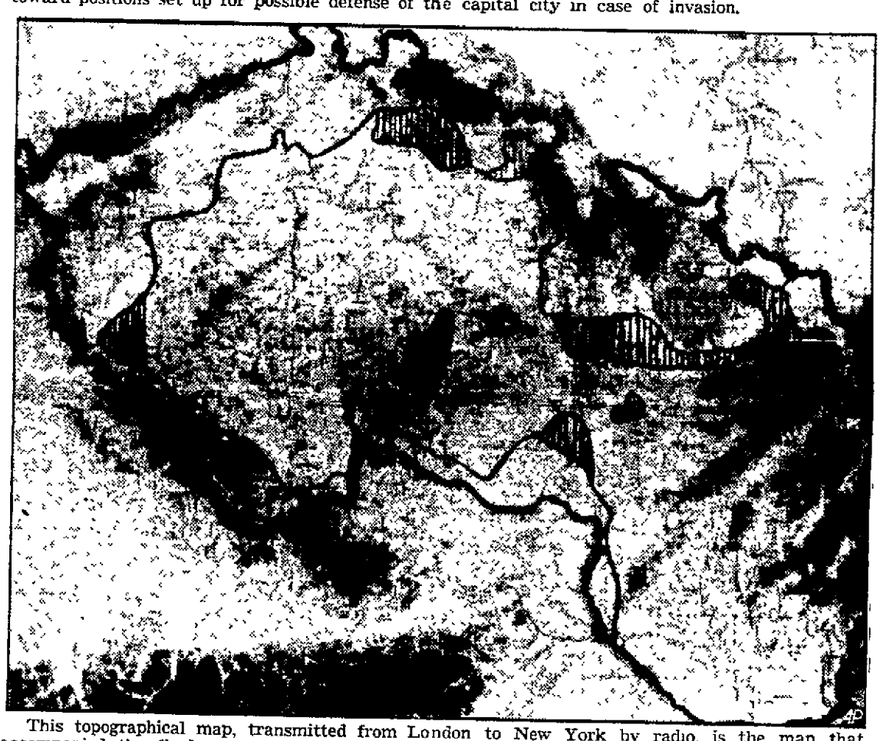
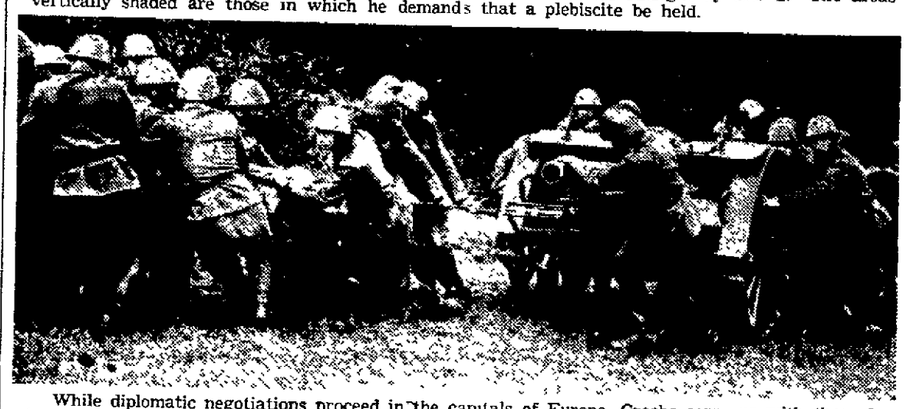
Amid Rumblings of War

Life goes on in Czechoslovakia despite the threat of war that hangs over the central European republic in the serious Sudeten German minority crisis. This striking picture shows a farmer near Prague gathering hay in his fields, while in background Czech army ammunition wagons rumble toward positions set up for possible defense of the capital city in case of invasion.



This topographical map, transmitted from London to New York by radio, is the map that accompanied the final memorandum of Chancellor Hitler to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain regarding German claims to the Sudeten territory of Czechoslovakia The area between the boundary and the heavy black line is that which Hitler demands outright by Oct 1. The areas vertically shaded are those in which he demands that a plebiscite be held.



While diplomatic negotiations proceed in the capitals of Europe, Czechs carry on with their defense measures. This group of artillerymen is hauling a big gun into position near Motol, a suburb of Prague, for defense of the Czech capital.

4 News-Journal Editions Tell European Story

To cover the fast-moving developments in the European crisis, especially the speech of Adolf Hitler, The News-Journal printed four editions yesterday, instead of the usual two.

The third edition, or first extra, carried the bulk of Hitler's talk, together with his warning that he would not recede his demands for cession of the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia to Germany. The second extra, which appeared on the streets at 5:45, carried a complete abstract of the speech, together with Hitler's ultimatum to the Czechs.

Served by the three great wire services—Associated Press, United Press and International News Service—The News-Journal is your best source for up-to-the-minute information on European developments.

CRASH KILLS DRIVER

NEWARK—(U.P.)—Carl P. Varner, 29, was killed when his automobile left route 79, two miles east of Hebron, went into an old canal bed and struck a pole last night.

A quizzical look that might be interpreted as fear or terror was on the face of this London baby as mother got a fitting for the latest accessory in her 1938 wardrobe—a gas mask. There'll be a gas mask for baby, too. Even Sunday schools have been turned into gas mask stations. This picture was transmitted from London to New York by radio.

UP TO CZECHS, HITLER REPLY TO ROOSEVELT

Tells President He Won't Be to Blame If War Breaks Out Over Demands.

VOICES APPRECIATION

Lauds American Interest in Peace but Reviews Claims to Sudeten Territory.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Reichsfuehrer Hitler carefully marshalled Germany's whole case today in an unusually long communication replying to President Roosevelt's appeal for European peace.

He ended with these words:

"It is now solely in the hands of the Czechoslovak government and not in the hands of the German government to decide whether it desires peace or war."

Hitler appealed to the president's understanding.

"I have the conviction," he wrote, "that if you visualize the entire development of the Sudeten German problem from its beginnings until the present day, you will realize that the German government certainly was not wanting in patience or a sincere will to peaceful understanding."

Message Appreciated.

"Be assured that I thoroughly appreciate the high-minded intentions underlying your argument," the Reichsfuehrer telegraphed in response to the message Roosevelt sent yesterday to the leaders of Germany, Czechoslovakia, Britain and France.

Roosevelt appealed for continuance of peaceful negotiations in an effort to solve the Czechoslovak crisis and avoid war.

"For that very reason," said the Chancellor after his reference to the "immediate consequences" of such a conflict, "I can and must decline every responsibility of the German people and its leadership if, contrary to all my effors to date, further developments should actually lead to an outbreak of hostilities."

"In order to form correct judgment concerning the Sudetic problem now under discussion it is indispensable to direct thoughts to events in which in the last analy-

CALL WITNESSES

Grand Jurors to Open Probe of 12 Cases Tomorrow.

A traffic accident and charges against nearly 25 persons will be investigated by the Richland county grand jury which will convene at 8.30 a. m. Wednesday for its first session in the September court term.

The jurors will hear 49 witnesses in the session which is expected to last at least two days. The cases on the docket involve 12 separate charges. Seven of the defendants are members of a "ring" alleged to have been involved in the theft and sale of a large number of automobile tires from freight cars in Mansfield.

County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott said he would ask the jury to investigate the injury of Paul and Lester Baker, brothers, who were struck three weeks ago by an automobile driven by Mrs. Walter F. Howell, Mansfield.

Mrs. Howell is alleged to have driven past a school bus from which one of the boys had alighted near his home.

CHECKS IN MAIL

September Pension Checks Sent to Ohio's Aged Today.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Old age pension checks for September were mailed today by State Auditor Joseph Ferguson.

No loan was necessary this month, the fund having been replenished by transfer of $800,000 from liquor profits and $423,000 from liquor taxes. The pension fund still owes the general revenue fund $1,215,000 from previous borrowings.

OXFORD—(U.P.)—A $35,750 bond issue for a new town hall was approved by Oxford voters in a special election Monday, 638 to 202. The town hall will be built with PWA help, and will cost about $70,000.

CHAMBERLAIN ON AIR TODAY WITH 'NO WAR' APPEAL

Fuehrer Believed Offered Way Out of Impasse Without Fighting; British Premier Talks To World; Czechs Stand Firm Against Demands.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—The United States embassy today advised all Americans to leave England because of the threat of war.

(Compiled From Latest Cables.)

A door seemingly closed to peaceful settlement of the Sudeten problem was opening cautiously.

Although he flatly renounced all responsibility for future war in Europe, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler spent a half hour today with Sir Horace Wilson, British emissary, and it was reliably reported that when Sir Horace left Berlin to return to London, he took with him a reply to the offer of peaceful cession of the Sudeten areas, made yesterday by Prime Minister Chamberlain, that would permit a peaceful solution of the problem.

Chamberlain, who yesterday said Britain would assume to guarantee the transfer of the Sudetenland to Germany, if it is done without force, was to broadcast to the British nation—in fact, to the whole world—at 2 p m. today, and was expected to enlarge on the comment he made yesterday after Hitler's speech in which he insisted on action on the return of the Sudeten territory by Oct. 1.

Usually well-informed quarters in Berlin said Hitler's reply to Chamberlain's new offer, which Sir Horace was taking back to London this afternoon, "gave new hope for a peaceful solution."

These circles declared that if Chamberlain is publicly willing to assume full guarantees that the Sudetenland is returned without delay, and if he takes on responsibility for holding President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia to such a commitment within a fixed time limit, such a procedure would undoubtedly be agreeable to the fuehrer.

The pointed suggestion was made, however, that Chamberlain publicly voice his guarantees before the British parliament assembles in special session tomorrow.

Coincident with this development which served to revive hopes for a peaceful solution, the fuehrer replied to President Roosevelt's peace appeal by disclaiming war responsibility and insisting upon the principle of self-determination.

Simultaneously, there was a more sinister development when Hitler called a council of war at the chancellery.

It was restated, however, that Hitler is determined that "something definite" must transpire by Oct. 1, the time limit set by the fuehrer in his initial conference with the British prime minister at Berchtesgaden.

Commanders of the German army, navy and air force attended the council of war. Hitler also consulted Nazi party leaders after his conference with Sir Horace Wilson.

Exact purpose of the meeting of high military officials at the chancellery was not revealed, but it was believed they were discussing concrete measures to be adopted if Prague does not yield by Oct. 1.

Flies Back to London.

Sir Horace took off by airplane for London from Templehof airdrome after seeing Hitler. He had

PRAGUE: Czechs Face Hitler Without Fear; Won't Surrender

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

PRAGUE—David faced Goliath today, with no fear.

Czechoslovakia will not surrender to Hitler.

Conscious that she has yielded and is ready still to yield everything for peace except her national existence, she is willing if necessary to become another Serbia.

But she feels that if this grim fate is hers, she will still come out of the purgatory a nation.

That is the national reaction today in this nation in arms, which gripped its weapons tighter after hearing Chancellor Hitler curse its beloved President Eduard Benes, revile the Czech people, declare their state a criminal monstrosity and swear that 75,000,000 Germans four days from now would bring to bear the might of the greatest single military machine in Europe to destroy them.

For no Czech could read any other meaning out of Hitler's declaration. He declared they were created only to threaten the national life of Germany, but said he did not want them in Germany and concluded that he intended to settle the Czechoslovakian problem now—once and for all.

It remained for listeners here to infer that when the German army strikes, it will set no less a goal than the extinction of Czechoslovakia.

But Hitler errs in setting a ratio of ten to one in his favor. Foreign military experts estimate the Czechoslovak soldiers now mobilized stand at a ratio of not worse than one to three.

The Germans at this moment

PARIS: France Sounds Call To Colors As Reply To Hitler

PARIS — France has answered Adolf Hitler's threat against Czechoslovakia by calling additional masses of troops to the colors, sources close to the government said today.

This disclosure of the French reaction to Hitler's speech at Berlin last night came as the cabinet was called into session for an urgent survey of the crisis.

Some sources predicted the cabinet meeting might result in a call for a special session of parliament, whose consent is necessary for a declaration of war.

The cabinet met for one hour and 50 minutes. The departing ministers would not say whether any momentous decisions were taken.

The usual communique said only that Premier Daladier "described the international situation" and that Health Minister Marc Rucart told of plans for forced evacuation of the capital should it become necessary.

Semi-official sources still saw hopes for peace, but such hopes were dependent upon Hitler's easing conditions of his "last definite offer." There were indications that the government wanted to be in a position to act if Hitler carried out his threat to take action if Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland were not handed over to him peacefully by Saturday.

Advices from the south of France said many troops were being sent to the Italian frontier, where an estimated 150,000 were holding mountain passes.

U. S. Acts to Halt Threatened Nation-Wide Rail Strike

UNIONS VOTE OPPOSITION TO PAY CUT PLAN

Railway Labor Act to Delay Walk-out to Dec. 1 While Negotiations Progress.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS)—Moving to avert the strike of 900,000 railroad workers who face a 15 per cent wage cut, President Roosevelt today proclaimed an emergency to exist and named a three-man board to mediate the differences.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Federal machinery to halt a paralyzing rail strike slipped into gear today as the nation's 1,000,000 union workers stood firmly in favor of a walkout in protest against a proposed 15 per cent wage slash.

H. A. Enochs, spokesman for the nation's railroad executives, immediately called attention to the terms of the railway labor act, which would stave off the strike of the 19 brotherhoods on Friday as scheduled.

He declared:

"The strike vote announced today was a vote for a paper strike to produce an emergency board and was not a vote for a real strike."

Set Strike Call.

Formal calls for the general walkout, with deadlines six hours apart, were issued by union chieftains last night after tabulation of the nation-wide ballot among the railway employes.

Eighteen brotherhoods, including the big operating unions, fixed 6 p. m. next Friday as the zero hour, while the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, acting independently, set 12:01 a. m. Saturday.

Railway executives had previously announced the 15 per cent pay slash would go into effect Oct. 1, but action there will be forestalled also until President Roosevelt appoints a board to inquire into the entire controversy. That board will probably be named today or tomorrow. The board must render a decision within 30 days. Then the president will have 30 days in which to study the board's recommendations and to make a formal public announcement.

Under this procedure, no actual strike can take place before Dec. 1.

In announcing that a strike had been decided upon, George M. Harrison, chairman of the committee of the co-operating labor organizations, declared:

"For railroad workers to consent to the proposed wage cut would be not only a gross injustice to themselves but also a wrong to the social and economic life of the country."

Recital Thursday To Feature Three Young Musicians

One of the interesting musical events of the new season in Mansfield will be a recital at 8:15 p. m. Thursday at the First Congregational church when three of the city's talented younger musicians are presented.

Miss Florence MacDonald, voice teacher, will present two of her pupils, Miss Jane Wilson, soprano, and Jack Wilson, tenor, with Miss Jean Seybold, pianist, as guest artist, presented by her teacher, Mrs. Marie Porterfield. Mrs. Porterfield will serve as accompanist for the singers also.

Miss Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson, 35 Blymyer avenue, will leave in the next two weeks to rejoin the Fred Waring orchestra after spending the summer in Mansfield studying. Her brother, Jack Wilson, who also has opera and radio aspirations, and who has sung in Mansfield churches for more than a year, has been taking intensive training throughout the summer. Miss Wilson was on tour last winter with the Waring show.

Miss Seybold, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Seybold, 514 South Main street, spent the summer at Fontainbleau Conservatory of Music in France which she entered with a special scholarship given to her at Ohio State university in recognition of unusual piano talent. She returned to Mansfield two weeks ago.

The recital is open to the public.

Up and Down THE STREET

Amused spectators last night watched a recently married couple hauled around Central park in a buggy pulled behind an automobile in what, from all appearances, was an old-fashioned "belling." When the wobbly vehicle had almost completed the circle, one of the wheels threatened to come off and the couple was hastily rescued and taken for the rest of the ride in a car. A chorus of automobile horns accompanied the buggy ride.

Judge C. H. Huston was examining a foreign-born applicant for citizenship at the courthouse this morning. Asked why he came to America, the man relied: "Because this country has a good king." Interested, the judge asked the applicant to name the king. "Mr. Davey," was his prompt answer. But his right of citizenship was granted anyway, Judge Huston adding that "I'd rather see a man with a good record like yours become a citizen than some of the fellows who know too much."

Burleigh Drummond of the Westinghouse advertising department, who won the annual University club golf championship at Westbrook last Friday is beginning to think that the victory was an empty one. While Drummond was toiling on the greens, someone, probably by mistake, picked up or borrowed his wife's golf clubs from the locker room. It was an expensive set and a gift. Drummond still has hopes that it may be returned when the person who picked it up looks at his or her clubs again and discovers the error.

He said he was grateful for the commission but would Mr. Farley please autograph the commission in place of the rubber-stamped signature, because he wanted the real "McCoy." He got it.

GET CHALLENGE

Dems Target of 'Distrust' Charge Made by Bricker.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—The Democratic party in Ohio faced the challenge today of John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor, that it is "torn by factionalism and shot through with suspicion and distrust."

Bricker leveled the charge in a radio address last night and added that Charles Sawyer, the Democratic nominee for governor, "made his first payment to the CIO leaders for their support," by seeing that the party platform did not condemn sitdown strikes. He continued:

"How can the people of Ohio trust the Democratic party when the party's leaders have publicly demonstrated that they do not trust each other?"

SERVICES HELD FOR SHILOH MAN

W. A. Stout Who Dropped Dead At Dam, Buried In Shenandoah.

SHILOH — Funeral services were held at Shenandoah yesterday afternoon for William A. Stout of Shiloh, who dropped dead Saturday afternoon while visiting Charles Mill dam, near Mifflin, with friends.

Mr. Stout had celebrated his 86th birthday anniversary only last Thursday at the home of Elmer Geisinger, Ganges.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Bertha Latimer, Columbus; Mrs. H. R. Forbes, Butler township and Stella of Ganges; a son, Frank of Shiloh, two sisters, Mrs. Ella Stauffer of Nankin and Mrs. Sadie Neff, Denver, Colo.; one grandson, Maurice Wells, Columbus, former Mansfield school principal, and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Shenandoah Christian church with Rev. Turner Holt officiating. Burial was in Shenandoah cemetery.

AWARDS SCHOOL TAXI CONTRACT

Board Accepts DeLuxe Cab Bid of $2,300 for Transporting 39 Handicapped Children.

After considering two bids for more than a month, the Mansfield board of education last night awarded the DeLuxe Cab company a one-year contract for transporting 39 children to special schools for handicapped children in the city.

The DeLuxe bid, submitted by R. N. VanDyne, manager of the company, was $138 higher than the offer of the Service Taxicab company, the other bidder. Board members said, however, that they believed the DeLuxe campany had the better insurance protection for pupils.

"We considered the safety of the children above cost in letting the contract," H. W. Arlin, board president, said.

Pupils will be hauled to school and back in the evening at a cost of 15 cents each per one way trip and 30 cents for the round trip. Outside the city limits, the cost will be 10 cents per mile additional. The total contract involves about $2,300 a year.

The DeLuxe campany has held the contract for the past year.

The board awarded a three-year bus contract to Mrs. Myrtle Houston, Mansfield, for transportation of 400 pupils who live outside the city and attend Mansfield schools.

Mrs. Houston's contract did not expire until next year, but the new half-day schedule at John Simpson junior high school requires additional trips and expense, she said.

The new contract gives her $87 a day for transporting the pupils over a total of 342 miles. The rate is 18 cents a mile, and the increase over the old contract price is $15 a day to care for an additional trip at noon for John Simpson junior high pupils.

A half-day session schedule was inaugurated at the school two weeks ago after the third floor of the building was condemned by the state. It will be in effect until one of the two proposed new junior high schools is completed next year.

Mrs. Houston has transported pupils to Mansfield schools for the past 18 years and operates a fleet of six buses.

DIES AT AGE 33

Miss Martha Reinhardt, Victim of Heart Attack.

BUCYRUS—Miss Martha Reinhardt, 33, died Monday at her home here of a heart attack. Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Katherine Reinhardt of Bucyrus, and two brothers, Albert of Cleveland and Arthur of Bucyrus. She was a member of the Good Hope Lutheran church. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Henderson and Lutz funeral home, with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

FARLEY SHAKES HANDS WITH 100 IN 10-MINUTE TRAIN STOP HERE

More than 100 persons, including a delegation of postal employes, were on hand yesterday afternoon at the Pennsylvania railroad station to greet Postmaster General James A. Farley on his brief stop here en route to New York.

The train on which Farley was riding arrived on schedule and stopped for 10 minutes. The postmaster general made no speech but spent the time greeting the entire delegation.

Standing on the station platform, he shook hands with postal employes from Mansfield and Shelby, Democratic leaders and others at the station.

Heading the Democratic delegation were Atty. John C. O'Donnell, chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee, and John F. Correll. The postal delegation was headed by William T. Houston, assistant postmaster, Vernon F. Hauserman, postoffice clerk, and Harry W. Zellner, superintendent of mails at the Mansfield postoffice, and postmasters from nearby towns.

Farley also was met here by William R. Thom of Canton, congressman from the 16th district, who made the trip to Canton with him. Farley addressed a Democratic rally in Canton last night.

The postmaster general was en route to New York from St. Paul, Minn., where he attended the annual convention of the National Association of Postmasters in session there last week. Postmaster Herman E. Homberger of Mansfield also atended the convention but is not expected to return until later in the week.

FORMS CLASS

WPA Offers Course in Sales, Business Administration.

Announcement of free classes for adults in sales and business administration under the auspices of the WPA, was made today by James Gordon, who will have charge of the activity.

Registration may be made at the Y. M. C. A or the Y. W. C. A. and first classes will be held at Bowman school at 6 p. m. Friday, Gordon said. It is now planned to have classes in the various courses two and three times a week.

If enough interest develops, Gordon said, classes will be organized in business law. He added that competent instructors were available, should enrollment warrant such classes.

If sufficient interest is shown in such classes in smaller Richland county communities, classes will be organized there, Gordon said. Registrations for such classes also may be made at either the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

BOARD SETS UP 4 PER CENT AS MAXIMUM RATE

Bids to Be Opened Oct. 21; Complete Plans for Senior High Addition Approved.

The Mansfield board of education last night took steps to sell $550,000 in bonds for the board's $1,000,000 building program and approved completed plans for a shop addition at Senior high school.

The bonds will be sold to the bidder requesting the lowest interest rate and in denominations of $1,000 each. Bids will not be requested until form of the bonds is approved by Attys. Squire, Sanders and Dempsey, Cleveland bond authorities. Bids will be opened Oct. 21 after they have been advertised three weeks.

The bond issue, approved at a special election last week, will be retired at the rate of $26,000 a year until they are paid in 1959. The first payment will fall due in April, 1940. A maximum interest rate of 4 per cent was set on the bonds.

Lets Contract Oct. 21.

Plans for a $25,000 shop addition at the high school, drawn up by Charles Conklin, architect, were approved and a contract for construction of the building will be let Oct. 21. Building operations are scheduled to begin within a week after that date.

The shop addition, which is the first unit of the $1,000,000 program, will be a one-story structure, 60 by 100 feet. It will be located directly behind the Senior high school building.

Conklin said the building probably would be completed in January, and board members saw the possibility of using it for junior high school classes while the John Simpson building is being razed to make way for a new junior high school.

The senior high addition will provide for the automotive shop courses and manual training department. Equipment now in use in the departments will be moved to the new building, Supt. W. L. Miller said.

Plans for the addition must be approved by regional PWA officials at Columbus before actual construction can be started.

Architects plans for the two new junior high school buildings and modernization of elementary buildings as called for in the building program have not been completed.

DIES AT AGE 78

John Fuhrer, Sr., Survived by 48 Grandchildren.

John Fuhrer, sr., 78, a resident of this vicinity 33 years, died at his home in Springfield township today after a brief illness. He was born in Switzerland, June 28, 1860, and came to this country at the age of 19.

The survivors include his wife, a son, John, jr.; a foster son, Donald Pierce; eight daughters, Mrs. Carl Oesch, Mrs. William Sauder, Mrs. Elmer Gilliom, Mrs. Donald Cordrey, Mrs. Herman Groh and Aldine, Emma and Martha, all of this vicinity, and 38 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Apostolic Christian church, Second and Diamond streets, at 2 p. m. Thursday, with burial in the Lantz cemetery. The family has requested that flowers be omitted.

CRAWFORD DEMS TO HOLD RALLY

Sawyer, Bulkley to Appear at Fairground Tomorrow.

BUCYRUS — Crawford county Democrats will launch their fall campaign at 6 p. m. Wednesday with a rally and ham bake at the county fairground where Charles Sawyer, candidate for governor, and Robert Bulkley, candidate for U. S. senator, will speak.

Other state and county candidates are scheduled to speak briefly at the meeting which will be in charge of the county Democratic campaign committee.

L. F. Walbauer, chairman of the committee, has invited Democrats from Richland and other nearby counties to attend the meeting.

FUNERAL SET

Fredericktown Train Victim to Be Buried Wednesday.

FREDERICKTOWN — Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Rinehart, 75, of near Fredericktown, who was fatally injured last Thursday when the car in which she was riding was struck by a train, will be held at the Meredith funeral home at 1 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. W. H. Petrie officiating. Burial will be in the Forest cemetery. Her husband, Adam, also injured in the accident, is in a serious condition in Mt. Vernon hospital.

FAIR ENOUGH!

It Seems 'Apocryphal' Didn't Apply to Story of Sinking of U. S. S. Maine

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Gratifying a long-suppressed desire to use the word "apocryphal," I related recently a folktale of journalism in St. Louis about an editor who unaccountably misjudged the importance of the bulletin on the sinking of the battleship Maine, stuffed the story away deep inside the paper and, like a religious penitent retired to a proofreader's cell for the rest of his professional life.

The late Otto Floto, of the Denver Post, often would write a long story just to work up to the point of using a double-dome word, and newspapermen within his radius enjoyed reading to him as he circled, feinted and moved in for the kill which usually occurred in the last paragraph but one. His method was ceremonious, like that of a bullfight. His colleagues enjoyed reading the old master's preliminary work, and when at last he would come out with hedonistic, irrefragible or cacophany they would throw down the paper and not bother to give attention while the attendants dragged off the still-warm carcass of the vanquished word.

I didn't really think my story was apocryphal, for it used to be told familiarly by many of the veterans around the old St. Louis Press club, but I knew there would never come a better chance to use that word, and after all these years in the business I did want to wiri my letter.

And now comes a note from Robert Hammond Murray indicating that this tragic error occurred twice on the same night. Mr. Murray relates that an editor of the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle also put the sinking of the Maine inside the paper.

"Our paper received the Sun or Laffan wire service, which this man loved as much as he despised the A. P." says Mr. Murray. "Along about 8 p. m. my friend would get his schedule from Laffan, lay out his first page, pretty like and typographically balanced to a T. and after that nothing but the assassination of McKinley or Queen Victoria could make him change it. Well, this night I was on the long watch and my friend was reading his book and waiting for 30.

"He erupted and I drifted over to ask why. He shoved over the A. P. bulletin, under a Washington date. The Laffan wire was still open, so he pushed open the slide of the window into the operator's coop and said, 'Ask 'em if they've got anything about this.'

" 'Not a word, they say,' reported the man on the Laffan wire.

"My friend swore horribly and said that if he were the boss of the Associated Press he would fire the man who sent that bulletin first thing tomorrow. I said there might be something in it, as the A. P. usually didn't go off half-cocked, but he wagged his head and was still cursing when both wires gave good night.

"Bill Lyddon, the foreman waddled in from the composing room and asked, 'Shall I close her up?' My friend scrawled a one-line head on the bulletin and said, 'Jam this in on number 2 or 3 if you can find room,' dumped his pipe, reached for his hat and called it a day.

"Unfortunately, our opposition, the Herald, bannered the bulletin that morning. My friend reported for duty at 7 p. m. next night as usual and approximately two minutes and thirty-six seconds later he severed his connection with the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle."

This treatment represents one school of thought in the handling of news. Exactly contrary was the attitude of an editor of a German daily, a client of the old United News. The German paper received only the high spots and those by telephone. One night there came a flash reporting the death of President Harding or a story of similar international importance, and Mr. Al Greene, the night chief operator of the United News, grabbed a phone and with fine dramatic power yelled "Flash! President Harding dead."

"Oh, neffer mind," said the German editor. "We got enough news. We don't need no more news tonight.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Gladys Swarthout, the loveliest contralto, is coming back to work out her Paramount contract—and they're giving her a little epic called "Ambush" which is about bank robbers and presumably cops. And she won't sing a note.

The day of the operatic star in pictures would seem to be over. Grace Moore, who started it all with "One Night of Love" and long led the popularity parade of the warblers, came to terms with Columbia on that last picture and accepted $50,000 for not making it in lieu of twice that for making it.

Lily Pons, married now to Andre Kostalanetz is through with pictures. Nino Martino despite such engaging films as "The Gay Desperado," is back at the Met, along with Jan Kiepura, whose Hollywood effort was a sour note at the box-office.

Lawrence Tibbett, who started something in "Rogue Song" of the early talkies but did not repeat for Zanuck when he came back, hasn't been heard from cinematically since "Metropolitan" in 1935. Helen Jepson, who was effective in the "Goldwyn Follies," was committed to Goldwyn for a while but the producer let her go for want of an immediate vehicle. Kirsten Flagstad's film work—in "The Big Broadcast of 1938"—has consisted only of an inserted aria

TITO GUIZAR, the Mexican-born troubadour, sang in opera once but changed to the more popular tunes—and it is as a "pop" singer that he is being pushed by Paramount, which has an uncommonly good eye on the Latin American market right now.

That leaves, of all the songbirds with operatic pretensions or aspirations, only the red-haired girl who never saw an opera stage but came to pictures from musical comedy — Jeanette MacDonald. Jeanette has ambitions for opera, and puts across an aria in pictures whenever she can—btu she's never forgotten that she's a picture actress first. When screen musicals had been discarded, Jeanette stayed on and played "straight" roles until they came back and sent her to glory. And Jeanette remains the lone singing queen—and will remain so unless by some miracle Hope Hampton ("The Road to Reno") catches on at this tail-end of the operatic craze.

Nelson Eddy, who has sung opera on the stage, is right up there with Jeanette—but Eddy has never sung an aria on the screen.

AND remember when there was talk about producing whole operas on the screen? Ernst Lubitsch had the idea, but that was three years ago. Since then Hollywood has been concerned less with costly experiments in "art" than it has been with getting returns on its money — and opera-on-the-screen would be financial suicide.

Even Nelson Eddy, who likes to sing it, will tell you that entire operas would be movie wash-outs.

"Except for a few," he'll tell you, "the plots are so full of gore, infidelity and assorted mayhem that they'd never get by the Hays office in the first place. In the second, they're time-worn and full of the old hoke. It's the music that keeps the opera fans coming back, but that's not enough in a movie."

ILL 5 MONTHS, TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Ora Loughley, 38, Dies at Home In Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Ora Mae Loughley, 38, died at her home here Monday after an illness of five months. A native of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Loughley resided in Bucyrus seven years.

The survivors include her husband, W. C. Loughley; two daughters, Florence and Jane, at home, and a sister and three brothers in Pennsylvania. She was a member of the Church of Christ and Eastern Star.

Services will be held at the Wise funeral home at 2 p. m. Thursday, with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

CLUB WOMEN ARRANGE LUNCHEON NEXT WEEK

Spencer Irwin, Newspaper Man and Lecturer, Will Speak on "The Last of Free Europe" Before Group at Westbrook.

WHEN Spencer D. Irwin, associate editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and former Mansfield newspaperman, spoke before a Mansfield audience in April he described Czechoslovakia as "Europe's No. 1 danger spot." Events, which are happening so rapidly at this time, and which have culminated in the present European crisis have verified this prediction.

The origin of the crisis and its consequences will be discussed when Irwin speaks before a joint luncheon meeting of the Conversational, Cosmopolitan, Journey, Round Table, Sappho, Tourist, Travelers and Victorian clubs at the Westbrook Country club Oct. 3 at a 1 o'clock luncheon.

"The Last of Free Europe" is the title selected by Irwin, for he sees the surrender of the democracies to the demands of Adolf Hitler and the betrayal of sacred treaty obligations as a turning point in the course of history which will affect the entire world.

Instead of avoiding war, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of "appeasement" with the dictators, in Irwin's opinion, lays the groundwork for a terrible conflict in the future.

As associate editor of the Plain Dealer, Irwin writes editorials on foreign affairs, and articles on the current situation. He is the author of a weekly column interpreting international events, "Behind the Foreign News."

Irwin is the only American newspaperman to whom the government of the Czechoslovak republic ever awarded the Officer's Cross of the Order of the White Lion. The award was granted by President Eduard Benes for Irwin's journalistic work on behalf of democracy. Irwin is also a Chevalier of the Order of the Star of Rumania.

He is a director of the Cleveland Foreign Affairs council, and he recently collaborated with Dr. Brooks Emeny, educational director of the council, in the revision of "The Great Powers In World Politics."

Irwin's appearance here will launch the season for the Mansfield women's clubs, many of which are studying foreign affairs this year. A frequent visitor in Mansfield, Irwin spoke before a similar group of club women at the country club two years ago.

HAVE CHICKEN DINNER.

A chicken dinner was served to 45 members of the Lumbermens Girls club at the church at Steam Corners last night. A program of readings and music followed the business meeting which was conducted by Miss Helen Myers, president. The dinner committee included the Misses Margaret Stahl, Louise English and Betty Burneson. The Misses Jessie Eckert, Leah Klmes and Doris Dunn planned the program. The next meeting will be in November.

For Afternoon, Evening Going

For going places after five a New York designer makes this colorful little velvet cardigan—fourth cousin to the evening sweater. It may top a slender skirt or a dinner dress. Elasticized threads shirt it, fuchsia colors it and velvet ribbons make a chapeau which shades from the same hue to plum.

Daughters Have Homecoming Dinner In Memorial Building

PRECEDING the regular routine and ritualistic meeting of the Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40, Daughters of Union Veterans last night in Memorial hall, 65 members of the tent, guests from out-of-town, and candidates were entertained at a homecoming covered-dish dinner served at a U-shaped table. A color scheme of purple and green was used with tapers lighting the table and a flat square centerpiece on the speakers' table.

The centerpiece was made of ageratum and marigolds with the word "home" spelled out in the latter blooms. Flower and taper pieces decorated the two side tables, and favors of tiny crocheted sachets in pastel shades marked each place. Mrs. Alice Oster and Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell were in charge of decorations.

Committee Members.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Alice Hunter, Miss Maude Swearinger, Mrs. Dorothy Droz, Mrs. Mary Craig, Mrs. Iva Ish, Mrs. Fannie Nail, Mrs. C. B. Robinson, Mrs. Ada Maginity, Mrs. Della McGuire and Mrs. Arminta Eller.

Mrs. Mary Alice Orewiler, patriotic instructor, presented the program. Mrs. Helen Melanson and Mrs. Nettie Kornoely gave a piano duet, followed by Mrs. Georgia Cook who offered a vocal solo. Jean Bechtel played two accordion numbers.

The president, Mrs. Ella McHugh, spoke briefly, and called on her guests including Mrs. Monette Norris, president of the Shelby tent, Mrs. Rose Donaldson, past president of the Newark tent, and Mrs. Etta Bachelor, her sister and also a member of the Newark organization.

"Carry On" was the title of the inspirational talk given by Mrs. Dorz, recently elected national senior vice president.

Initiate Four.

All the officers were present for the work, and Mrs. Allie Garret directed the drill team in the routine. After the report of $31 worth of welfare work this month, four candidates were initiated. They were Miss Mary Zeller, Mrs. Nellie Dillon, Mrs. Elizabeth Tressel and Mrs. Katherine VanTilburg. Mrs. Tressel won the prize.

The group made final plans for the district meeting to be held at Fredericksburg Oct. 28. Mrs. Oster, district chaplain, and the Mansfield tent will put on the district memorial work.

Crescendo Music Club Plans Two Recitals During Winter

PROGRAMS for the Crescendo Music club are still in the process of being printed, but Mrs. Edward Gibson, adviser, and Miss Lois Robinson, program chairman, announced plans for the coming year today. The principal events of the year will be two recitals—one in November and one in March—in which members of the club will participate.

For the Oct. 13 meeting Miss Betty Axtell will review "Little Night Music" at the home of Miss Virginia Casperson, 500 Crescent road. In December the group will have a pot-luck dinner and a program of Christmas stories and carols.

Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield will speak in January, and in February the group will substitute a Saturday afternoon program for the regular evening meeting. At this time they will listen to a radio broadcast, and make plans for attending an opera in Cleveland. The April meeting will be a joint session with the other junior groups and with the Music Study club.

This program was recently adopted at a meeting where Miss Olive Jean Hughes, pianist, presented a recital.

Wait Until You're Sure Writer Says

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax: This last summer, I met a young man to whom I took quite a liking. He had to leave here because his temporary position was finished. He told me he cared for me, and I liked him better than any man I ever went with. He asked me to promise to be faithful to him and not go out with others, and he said he'd promise me the same. I kept my promise about three months and then got tired of going out with only girls.

He and I correspond and he sends me lovely gifts, and I still like him a lot. However, I met another young man who wants me to keep "steady" company with him. He is very intelligent and has his own business. He's not as handsome as my other friend, and is a little older.

Shall I stop corresponding with the first friend and tell him I've found someone I liked better, or drop the gentleman who has his own business?

UNDECIDED.

You don't seem to realize it, but you are putting the question to yourself: Shall I keep on with a poor young man I'm really in love with, or throw him over for one who has better prospects? Why do either? It isn't necessary to regard every young man you meet as a finality. Don't be in a hurry to sign up for life—wait until you can decide which one you care most about, and then make up your mind.

It's possible you may meet a third man, whom you will like better than either of these two.

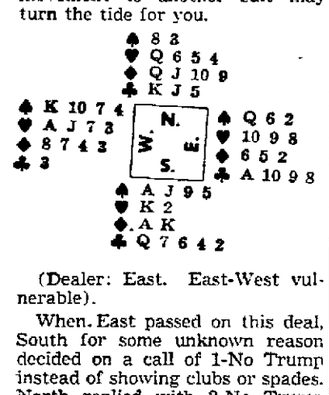
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A FLANK MOVEMENT

WHEN your partner clearly has led a four card suit against no trump and the declarer's prompt taking of the trick betokens his utter lack of worry over that suit, it is well to think about some shift in tactics. If you get in the lead later, it is possible that a flank movement to another suit may turn the tide for you.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable).

When East passed on this deal, South for some unknown reason decided on a call of 1-No Trump instead of showing clubs or spades. North replied with 2-No Trump and South went to 3-No Trump.

The spade 4 was West's opening lead, on which dummy played the 3, East the Q and South the A. The diamonds A and K were next cashed by declarer, who then tried out clubs. East went in immediately to return a spade. The 8 forced West's 10. He then took the K and returned the 7 to South's J. A club to the K was declarer's next play to cash the diamonds Q and J. Then the club 5 was played to the Q. South next played the heart K to West, who won with the A and was obliged to lead to the heart Q. The result was the defense cashed four tricks and South made game.

When East was in with the club A, a switch to the heart 10 would have been his correct play, as it was apparent West held only four spades and the fact that the South won the first lead indicated that he had at least another stopper in that suit.

House plants need a cool soap-and-water bath occasionally to get the dust off the leaves. The best way to bathe a plant is to lay it on its side and sponge off each leaf carefully with absorbent cotton, dipped in cool suds of mild soap. Follow by rinsing each leaf with cold water to remove the soapy water drain into the soil.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Sept. 28.

A day of mixed influence again is read from the rule of important planets. While there may be advancement or recognition in employment, with superiors and those in authority friendly disposed, also there is an omen of frustration, with delays or postponements which may have a depressing effect. However, the mind may be able to concentrate on balky situations, and the judgment may be depended upon, thus swinging delays or seeming defeats into favorable channels.

Those whose birthday it is may be ready to turn some seeming obstacles into fortunate results by wise judgment, patience and persistency, taking advantage of difficult situations and bringing to bear the powerful and friendly influence of employers, superior or elderly persons.

A child born on this day may be clever, serious and have fine mental ability which may be turned to very practical, constructive work, pleasing to its employers or superiors.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I had no opportunity for several minutes to bring up the subject of Noel's accompanying Dicky and the boys to the city. No sooner had the dining room door closed after us than Dicky put his hand under my elbow and skimmed me along the corridor to my little study, the room where we could best be assured of solitude. He said crisply:

"Whatever you want to talk to me about must wait a few minutes. Forgive me—but there's something I must say to you first."

That he was keyed up to something unusual I could see, and I merely murmured, "Of course, Dicky," as he rushed me down the hall, and then waited passively until he had ushered me into the study, locked the door, put me in to a chair and seated himself opposite to me.

At last he managed to get out the request which he well knew would astonish me, as well as upset the program I had laid out for myself for the next 24 hours.

"Will it be possible for you to start for the city with Hank and Bill and me within the next hour?" he asked diffidently.

Dicky Needs Her.

"I had planned to go back tomorrow," I said hesitantly, "but—if you need me—"

He interrupted me quickly.

"I do need you—and how!" he said. "Not for anything special which I wish you to do. But I want to know that you are in the city where I can get hold of you quickly if I have to do so. Besides, I don't want you driving up alone tomorrow. Much safer if we all go together tonight."

"I'll manage same way, and go with you tonight," I said. "But I'm not sure that I can make it in an hour. There are many things I had planned to do in the next 24 hours, and I must talk to Katherine and to Lillian about them. It all depends upon when Katherine can leave Queen Olga. She's still busy with her, you know."

"You are the bulliest scout ever," he said huskily, and, sweeping me into his arms, kissed me with fervent tenderness.

She Asks Favor.

For a long second I was blissfully silent. Then I remembered Noel, and, leaning back in my husbands arms, spoke quickly before my courage should fail me. I had no idea how Dicky would take my request to have Noel accompany us, and I did not wish to spoil the savor of the beautiful moment I had just experienced.

"I have a favor to ask of you, too, Dicky," I said diffidently.

"To the half of my kingdom," he answered extravagantly with another kiss. Encouraged by his tender flippancy, I went on.

"It's about Noel," I said. "You heard Lillian tell Phil that if Noel came over here, he must be incommunicado, with his father, neither coming to see him nor telephone—"

"I see it all!" he said. "You and Lil certainly do beat the devil himself! You're going to spirit Noel away to New York to a rendezvous with his charming young wife. And I suppose you had planned to have him go in with me and with the boys tonight. Okay, we can squeeze him in, all right, but I can tell you that you are playing a dangerous game. Pulling the well-known wool over Philip Veritzen's eyes simply isn't done.

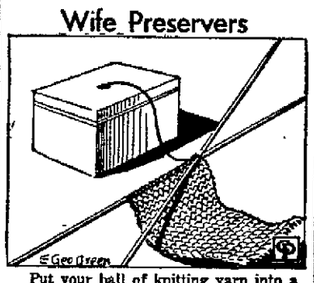
Roast Veal with Dressing
Baked Potatoes Buttered Beets
Pickled Peaches Cabbage Salad
Chocolate Cornstarch Pudding
Coffee

I like a good fowl dressing with roast veal, which has a bland flavor. I am giving you the recipe for pickled peaches, because you may decide to put up a few jars of same. They are so good all through the year with meats, hot or cold, and if you pickle a few at a time they are not much work—even for a business woman.

Dressing for Roast Veal—Two cups toasted bread crumbs, one large onion, one teaspoon dried sage, one-half teaspoon salt, a little pepper, one stalk celery (optional). Put all through the food grinder, add one egg and water to make moist, and stuff into pocket in roast, or put on top or at side of meat in roaster.

Pickled Peaches—You can pickle peaches with the skins on or take them off, as you please. In case you do not peel them, wash well and rub off the down before pickling. If you decide to peel them, dip peaches quickly into hot water, then into cold, and the skins will come off easily. For four quarts of peaches take two cups vinegar, four cups sugar, two tablespoons stick cinnamon, one tablespoon whole cloves. Mix vinegar, sugar and spices — you may tie spices in a bag if you wish. Boil mixture five minutes, remove spices, put peaches into mixture, a few at a time, and cook until tender. Drain, pack into sterilized jars, cover with boiling syrup and seal at once.

Wife Preservers



Put your ball of knitting yarn into a small box with a tight-fitting cover. Put a small hole in the lid and pull the end of the yarn through the hole with the lid closed. The yarn will come out easily and will be clean and free of tangles.

Tasty Meat Dishes On Fall Lists

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

At this time of year tasty meat dishes tease the nostrils and give advance notice of gustatory delights to come. Salads and such are all very nice in the good old summer time, but when the breezes cease to be balmy and the sun loses its sting, the appetite demands strong fare, good, nourishing meat dishes.

Brisket stew, next to lamb stew, is our favorite. If you like meat with plenty of vegetables and a nice, rich gravy, then make this dish pronto. For three pounds brisket you will need six small potatoes, four parsnips, one small cabbage, one cup lima or butter beans, four small carrots, four small turnips, six tiny onions, four small sweet potatoes, one sprig parsley, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Place brisket in a kettle of boiling water, lower the heat and simmer until meat is tender (three or four hours). Prepare the vegetables and add all except the potatoes, parsnips and cabbage, at least an hour before meat is done. The beans should be parboiled before adding. Add potatoes, parsnips and cabbage about 30 minutes before serving. If there is more fat than desired, either let the mixture cool, then remove the fat which comes to the top, or else skim off fat while it is hot. This recipe will yield eight good servings.

Steak, Spanish style, is a delicious dish that calls for one and one-half to two pounds of round, chuck or flank steak for four good servings. Other ingredients include two tablespoons each melted meat drippings and vinegar, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one chopped onion, one tablespoon each minced parsley and minced celery leaves, one chopped, small green pepper, two cups tomato soup or tomato sauce. After wiping the steak with a clean, damp cloth, score on both sides. Cover with a dressing made of the fat, vinegar, onion and other seasonings. Soak for an hour or longer. Sear the meat, using extra meat drippings or bacon fat, if needed. Then place in shallow baking dish or casserole. Add what is left to the dressing, the tomato soup or sauce, and bake in 325 F. oven for two hours, or until meat is tender.

Care of Meat.

As we are dealing with meat, it might be well to reiterate a few rules about its care. As soon as meat reaches the home, it should be unwrapped, placed in a clean dish and stored in the coldest place in the food compartment of the refrigerator. Meats kept at or below a temperature of 50 F., with the circulation of air in the food compartment unhampered, will keep as long as is usually needed for home consumption. Liver, sweetbreads, kidneys and other sundry parts of meat require a lower temperature if kept for the same length of time as meat cuts. Generally such cuts should be used immediately. Another method of conserving meat is to sear the surface of the meat, allow it to cool and then set it in the refrigerator. Meat may also be covered or marinated with a dressing made of one part vinegar and three parts of oil, salt and pepper. In both cases a coating is given to the meat, and, in the latter case, the seasoning add to the flavor and tenderness when it is cooked.

Notes From a Model's Diary

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

It is grand to be really back home. Last night the maid called us at the hotel and told us that the men were out of the apartment, and it had been all cleaned up, and that it was ready for us. Fortunately, Consuelo happened to be at the hotel when the message came, and you should have seen us pack, check out and sprint over to the apartment.

Ella is a grand girl. She had fixed a nice supper which was all ready for us. Well, that first meal in my own home tasted marvelous. I don't think I've ever been so pleased to be anywhere. The apartment looks beautiful. The weather is still so nice that we'll be able to be out on the terrace for a little while. In fact, Consuelo wants to give a little party next Sunday. I'm glad of that, for the place is all spruced up, the new drapes are up, and everything looks as slick as can be.

Unpacking Finished.

I stayed up and did all my unpacking and sorted all my clothes. I sent away most of the things to be cleaned, for I hate to store summer clothes with all the dirt and grime still on them. If things are good enough to save, they are good enough to have cleaned before storing. I bought some beautiful crystal bottles in Paris, and they look just lovely on the mirror-glass dressing table that Pam gave me last Christmas. I brought back some of these lovely big leather hassocks that come from Morocco, and I've put one in my bedroom by the terrace door.

Charming Daytime Dress.

Consuelo has one of those new chairs with a triple mirror fixed at back so that as she does her hair or makes up she can see how she looks from all sides. She is going to have one installed at her theater dressing room, too. Consuelo had her rooms done over, and they look lovely. She had closets installed in her dressing room, so she gave me the other big closet in the hall.

They tell me in the store that the little all-around dress for general daytime wear is a big seller. Here is one of our models, a lovely little frock of sheer wool in a luscious American beauty red. Little vertical folds in a double row at the yoke and on the sleeves form the only trimming. The yoke above the folds is gathered slightly into a soft bow at the back. It has composition buttons in the same tone as the dress.

The best oven temperature for baking ham is between 250 and 275 degrees Fahrenheit. This gives a most delicious ham which slices well. If a glazed appearance is desired, use a left-over sweetened fruit juice for basting the ham. This also adds to the flavor.

To clean a white fur carriage robe, heat sawdust in the oven and when very hot rub thoroughly into the fur. Several applications may be necessary before it is clean. Then brush in the open air until all the sawdust is removed.

PIRATES REGARDED AS BEST BALANCED CLUB IN EITHER MAJOR LEAGUE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (AP) — This week tells the story in the National league. . . . Cubs against Pirates in a three-game series starting today. . . . Pirates still remain the favorites, although thousands are pulling for the Cubs. . . . You can't lose sight of the fact that the Bucs have been on top of a hectic race since July 12 and that's a real test in any man's league . . . Besides that, they have one of the best balanced clubs in either major league. . . . On the other hand the Cubs are coming along under the inspiring leadership of old Gabby Hartnett and they have two red hot pitchers right now in Bill Lee and Clay Bryant. . . . Anything can happen, brothers.

Mid-west fans don't like the attention this collum pays to the Southwest conference and one bird (who doesn't bother to sign his name) points out that Rice, which won the championship down there was beaten by Oklahoma, which was not champion of the Big Six. . . . Six former South Bend, Ind., high school players were members of this year's western all-stars which may or may not be something of a record. . . . Thanks to the plugging of Fred Digby of the New Orleans Item, the preppers of that city will get the use of the new municipal stadium on the cuff.

WE'LL go on record as predicting the Yanks will take either the Cubs or the Pirates in five games. . . . Sol Goldberg, popper of the famous Marshall, has sold his picture show in Elkins, W. Va., so he can follow Pitt on the road. . . . (He had to go to the opposition house to see the newsreels, anyway.) . . . Doc Williamson, the football expert, likes Texas Tech and Auburn. . . . There is no change in plans for a big shakeup on the Giants. . . . Only a bare half dozen are sure of their jobs next year. . . . If George McAfee hadn't gone on the shelf, Duke would have had the best backfield in the south in McAfee, Eric Tipton, Irish O'Mara and Bob Spangler

Six-Man Football Grows in Ohio

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Slowly, but with unmistakable consistency, the game of six-man football is invading smaller Ohio schools it was revealed today by Scholastic Athletic Commissioner H R Townsend

Checking his records Townsend found that 19 schools had signified their intention of indulging in the speedy sport this fall and predicted "an increase in that number before the season is completed and after all records are compiled."

Murphy Seeks Speed

Tyger Leader May Shake Up Blocking Setup for Hammond Game.

SATISFIED THAT the line is developing into a capable unit, Coach Russ Murphy yesterday turned his attention to backfield problems as the Mansfield high school Tygers started work for their Stadium field engagement with Hammond, Ind., Clark Saturday

Murphy not only concentrated on speeding up the scoring machinery, but also spent some time ironing out defects which cropped out in the pass defense.

Stop Short Passes.

In their defeat by Massillon last week the Tygers succeeded in stopping the visitors' short air game, but they were virtually helpless before the long range aerials.

Ike Smith, Marshall Smith and Howard Hershey showed up well against Massillon on the offense, but their defensive play must be improved, especially against throws, Murphy said today.

Murphy plans a general shakeup in the blocking setup, and it may mean lineup changes. Improved blocking is being sought to permit the use of more wide plays the coach said.

In an attempt to gain the improvement, Murphy this week plans to use Bob Lantz and Ed Kinkel in the important guard positions. If they show they can strengthen blocking weaknesses, they will start against Hammond, Murphy stated.

There is also a possibility that Russ Beer will break into the lineup as a starter next Saturday Beer proved himself an adept ball player against Massillon and may be tried at a terminal.

Mike Horvath and Jack Dugger, who started the first two games at the ends, are handicapped by leg injuries, and it was not certain today whether either would be available Saturday Dick McMullen is another Tyger who is not a certain starter.

Capt Rich Nagle absorbed much punishment Saturday, but he is expected to be ready to go against the Pioneers

While Murphy was disappointed in his team's showing Saturday, he realizes that the Tygers are inexperienced, and figures that this had as much to do with the whipping as anything.

Despite the setback, Murphy expects the Tygers to make it tough for their remaining foes on the schedule "We may spring a surprise or two before it's all over, too," he said

Starts Final Round Two Strokes Ahead

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(INS)—Billy Burke, Cleveland's national open champion in 1931, frowned on youth and a field of present-day stars today as he started the final 36 holes of the $13 500 golf specialty over the Fenway club course

With 286, Burke held a two-stroke advantage of his nearest rivals, Paul Runyan, P. G. A titleholder, Mike Turnesa of Fairview, and Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., each of whom finished the first 72 holes in 288 Then came Sam Snead, West Virginia's long hitter, Harry Cooper and Chandler Harper, with 290 each.

Lost Putter Returned To New Amateur King.

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Willie Turnesa's "Mary Ann," charmed putter which he lost in the excitement of winning the National Amateur Golf championship, speeded to Turnesa's home in Elmsford, N. Y., today aboard a mail train.

An unidentified man telephoned a Pittsburgh newspaper (Post-Gazette) last night and admitted he had picked up the putter after it had fallen out of Turnesa's bag at the conclusion of Turnesa's title match with Pat Abbott last Saturday at Oakmont. The caller added that the club was on its way to the amateur champion.

Hot Cubs Pin Hopes on Dean

Bryant, Lee Slated to Face Bucs In Other Games.

CHICAGO — (UP) — Dizzy Dean comes out of his costly retirement today to help Chicago's Cubs make a desperate gamble to win the National league pennant from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

His $250 000 arm has pitched only seven scattered relief innings since Aug 20 If he bears down today he could ruin it forever. But the Cubs must win today, tomorrow and Thursday if they're to win the pennant.

At the start of the vital three-game series, the Pirates still clung to a 1½ game lead. To preserve it, Manager Pie Traynor was pitching his right-handed ace, Jim Tobin

The Cubs were the hottest team in baseball They had won 17 of their last 20 games. Since Sept. 4, their two great right-handers, Bill Lee and Clay Bryant, had been just about the entire pitching staff. Working after only two days' rest, each has rolled up five victories in that string of 17 won in 20 played.

Bryant will face Pittsburgh tomorrow and Lee, first National league hurler to win 21 games, will pitch on Thursday. Lee picked up his 21st victory yesterday against the St Louis Cardinals, 6 to 3.

In yesterday's other game, the New York Yankees, already champions of the American league, beat Boston, 4 to 3

KNOCKS OUT RISKO.

ATLANTA — Ben Brown 159 Atlanta knocked out Eddie (Babe) Risco, 163 Syracuse N Y, (9).

News-Journal Golfers To Dine Wednesday.

The annual banquet of The News-Journal Class B golf league will be held at the Possum Run clubhouse at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, Homer King, president of the organization, announced today. The Bissman company golfers will be presented with the championship trophy at the banquet.

Injury Costly To Tribe Vet

Harder Not Expected to Hurl Again This Year.

CLEVELAND — (UP) — A torn capsule joint in the middle finger of the pitching right hand of Mel Harder probably cost the veteran Cleveland hurler $1,000 in the last week of the 1938 American league season.

The injury, which forced Mel to retire Saturday from a game against Detroit when he was leading 6 to 1, likely will prevent him from taking the mound again this week, Dr E B Castle, the club physician, said.

Inasmuch as Harder figured to win Saturday's game and at least one other and his contract called for a $500 bonus for each game won over 15 this season, the mishap was costly. The veteran has 17 victories.

The Indians, after a day of idleness, met the Chicago White Sox in the first of a three-game series today. Bob Feller was expected to pitch for Cleveland.

Ritter, Liederkranz Hold Pin Spotlight

Roll Bowling Scores of 657, 2892 to Set Pace In Club Handicap League at Meder Alleys.

CLYDE RITTER and his Liederkranz club teammates held the spotlight in the Club handicap league matches at the Meder alleys last night

Putting together games of 245, 199 and 213 for a 657, high individual score of the night, Ritter led the Leiderkranz team a 2892 count, which led the five-man scoring

Selby contributed a 226 and 603 to the Leiderkranz total, which, however, was good for only one victory. A big handicap enabled the J. A. C. club to win the edge.

Earl Robertson shot a string of 255-201-191 — 647 to pace the American Legion to a 2838 total and a sweep over the Page Dairys. The three wins enabled the Legionnaires to hold a first place tie with the Commercial Managers, who swept their series with the Tracy & Avery quintet.

In the other matches, the Optimists, led by Art Hilborn's 607, won two tilts from the Kiwanians, the Mansfield Athletic club took a pair of games from the Schoolmasters and the Baku Grotto added two wins at the expense of the Mansfield Savings Bank.

KAYOES SANDUSKIAN

LOUISVILLE, Ky — Buff Mellinger, 191, Pittsburgh, knocked out Al Gatchell, 185, Sandusky, O., (6).

Old Injury May Keep Weber Out of Lineup.

Nick Weber, former Mansfield high school football star, who is a Junior at the University of Tennessee, may be lost to the Vols for the balance of the season, it was learned today.

A recurrance of an old knee injury may keep the Mansfield boy out of action for the rest of the schedule, according to reports from the school. Weber was expected to hold down a regular berth until the old injury was aggravated in practice. He did not appear in the opener against Sewanee.

K-B Coals Work For Next Foe

Miller's Semi-Pros Meet Struthers Eleven Next Sunday.

THE OPENING game defeat has not convinced the Kallmerton & Baer Coals, that they are not tough enough to tackle the stronger semi-pro gridiron aggregations.

They engage another tough foe at League park next Sunday when they meet the Struthers, O., A. C. eleven, which promises to offer the Coals another afternoon of trouble.

Defeated 12 to 6 by the Detroit Pi Rho Phis last Sunday, the Coalmen showed much promise, and should develop into a dangerous organization. It was unfortunate that the K-B's were forced to open with a club as powerful as the Detroiters, but Coach Gip Miller was not disappointed.

"It is no disgrace to lose to a club like Detroit," Miller stated, "and we'll be back to beat teams just as strong as Detroit before the season is over."

Miller noticed many spots in the Coals' play that need improvement and plans daily workouts this week to correct the faults which croped out Sunday

Ferebee Hopes to Add 144 Holes in Play Today.

MILWAUKEE—(UP)—J. Smith Ferebee, the Chicago broker who it attempting a 600-hole transcontinental golf marathon in four days, hopes to complete 72 holes here before noon, fly to Chicago and play 72 more before dusk.

This would bring him to the 481-hole mark and leave him 119 to play in Philadelphia and New York tomorrow to collect some widely publicized wagers reported to total $100,000. He limped badly as he finished his final round at St. Louis with the aid of automobile headlamps last night.

BISONS CALL ON KOWALIK TO EVEN SERIES TODAY

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (UP) — The Buffalo Bisons called on Pitcher Fabian Kowalik today to turn back the Newark Bears and even the series at 2-2 in the International league playoff final for the Governor's cup. Newark won 10 to 2 last night.

Shelby Meets Jackets

Heavy Schedule of Games to Be Played in Vicinity This Week-End.

A CHOICE menu of football attractions is on schedule for grid followers in this vicinity this week-end.

Mansfield high's encounter with Hammond, Ind., Clark at Stadium field Saturday afternoon will hold the stage Saturday afternoon, but the Friday night schedule is packed with games that promise action.

Pile Up 129 Points.

Coach Al Fendrick sends his high-scoring Rams of Madison into action in a night game at Crestline Friday. The Rams scored 129 points in their first two games, but it is hard to tell what will happen in Crestline.

Shelby, victorious in its first two games, is host to Mt. Vernon in an N. C. O. conference tilt. The outcome of this game will help to determine the title.

Ashland goes to Galion Friday night, and the fur should fly, too. These two clubs are undefeated, and it also will have a definite bearing on the N. C. O. crown

Bucyrus will be the third N. C. O club to face Norwalk this season when they collide in the Redmen's park Friday, and it will offer a chance to compare the strength of Coach Aembrust's men with Shelby and Ashland.

Another Friday night tussle that will be watched with interest will take place at Sandusky, where the Blue Streaks, held to a scoreless tie by Elyria, engages Toledo Waite. Sandusky is a future Mansfield foe.

No play is scheduled in the Mid-State league this week, but all of the Rams' rivals will be in action.

Host to Freddies.

Bellville, which looms as one of the Rams' chief rivals, takes on Fredericktown on the home field Friday afternoon, while Loudonville, idle since the Ashland defeat, entertains New London.

Mt Gilead, the other Mid-State league club, will try to make amends for the Galion whipping in its game with Butler on its home gridiron.

ONE GAME SHORT

KANSAS CITY—(UP)—St. Paul was one game from the 1938 American association baseball championship today. St. Paul won last night's contest, 7 to 1, four Kansas City pitchers being unable to stop the timely rallies of the winners.

NOT BAD AT ALL

Having completed 25 years in Western Conference football, Ohio State can sport the fine record of having finished in fourth place or better 17 times, including three Big Ten titles and one tie for the championship.

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

COUNTING the coaches of the junior high clubs, Coach Paul Brown has 16 men assisting him in keeping Massillon on top of the state grid pile . . . Look for Ashland high to make a comeback in football. Coach Red Longley is concentrating on building up the game in the pre-high school classes. . . . Leonard Simonetti, outstanding New Philadelphia athlete, is not going to a New York school. Reports say he's at Marshall . . . Spectators at Saturday's football game at Stadium field nearly saw a "Reigel!" Bud Lucius intercepted a pass in the third period and started to run the wrong way. His teammates tackled him . . . Just one look at Center Harold Gallagher's face after the Tyger-Tiger tussle revealed that there was plenty of doings on the line of scrimmage . . . Perhaps we'll hear a lot more from Howard Hershey and Marshall Smith as Tygers once they learn more about defensive play. . . . When Ashland college asked for more football recruits Smith Rose, a pre-seminary student, answered the call despite the fact that he is serving as night watchman on the campus and drives over 200 miles on Sundays to fill a pastorate in Pennsylvania. . . . Golf is virtually the only game the Turnesa family of which Willie Turnesa new U S amateur king, is a member, has known from a standpoint of a career or sport. Besides his six professional brothers Willie's father is a greenskeeper.

GALION is the team to beat in the N. C. O. conference race, we are told . . . "Beanie" Berens, one of Ohio U.'s greatest cagers, is now coaching at Marion St. Mary's. . . . Kid Chocolate, former feather champ is collecting $400 a month teaching boxing to soldiers in the Cuban army . . . The Yankees' Red Ruffing has beaten every team in the American league at least twice this season . . . The first professional football game on record was one between Latrobe and Jeanette over in Pennsylvania, on Aug. 31 1895.

Ashland's Small Squad Decides to Carry On

(By Associated Press)

PERFORMANCE of their proteges under fire in the season's opening battles caused many Ohio college gridiron mentors to study possible lineup changes today.

While many aggregations considered initial encounters as warm-up tilts, to the coaches the occasion was of major importance New material shows its mettle in action

Light workouts occupied most contingents yesterday allowing the lads who received minor injuries in week-end engagements a chance to limber up easily

At Ohio Wesleyan, two veteran backs and a couple of seasoned linemen were on the sidelines as the Bishops sought to profit from a 33 to 0 trouncing at the hands of Western Reserve The idle huskies included backs Pat Brooks of Shaker Heights and Les Michael of Mechanicsburg and Guards Bill Jones of Clinton, Ind., and Pete Rardin of Portsmouth

Offensive drill was the order of the day at Marietta, where a bruised squad went through a light session Rutgers walloped the Pioneers Saturday, 20 to 0. Fullback Karol Litman, out with a back injury, was replaced by Bob Moun

Mount Union, after eking out a 7-0 victory over Hiram, stressed defense in preparation for the powerful Miami gridders.

Jack Peters, sophomore guard, was on the inactive list at Marshall, having undergone an operation for the removal of a cartilege from his knee. Peters will be out for possibly three weeks.

Xavier University worked on plays calculated to upset Ohio University's Bobcats in a fracas scheduled for Friday night, moved up from Saturday because of the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati baseball game at Cincinnati.

Ashland college's athletic committee has decided to carry on despite a "baker's dozen" squad—unless the team roster should be reduced further. The committee said, however, Bowling Green might take on Bluffton Oct. 8 instead of Ashland's Eagles.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

By HELEN WELSHIMER

(Copyright, 1938)

READ THIS FIRST:

Judy Rogers, New York heiress, is stunned when Craig Denby, the man she loves, tells her on the phone that he has married a girl he met at a week-end house party. Afraid of marriage, Judy reflects she put Craig off once too many times. Then she phones her father's lawyers to learn the details of his financial crash, just announced in the newspapers, and talks with Ronald Birrell, a brilliant young attorney from Tennessee who has just joined the firm. Ronald both angers and fascinates Judy, doubting that she has the stamina to remain in New York and make her own way designing dresses which she says she likes to do. Judy's father tells her he is going west with her stepmother, assuming his daughter plans to join her mother abroad. Judy doesn't tell him her mother cabled, announcing other plans for the winter with her second husband.

CHAPTER 4.

People passing on the street saw a slim girl, dark brown hair blowing in the cool autumn air, skirts whipped around slender ankles under a huge white polo coat. To them, she was buying a paper. Buying two papers.

They did not see her eyes. They were so frightened, so hurt, that the man who sold the papers looked away.

Judy hailed a taxicab. She could not go home just yet. She must stay outside where she could breathe. The top of the cab was rolled back. A dark blue sky, spangled with silver stars, hung over the city. A moon rolled along lavily, as though grown too big for its mission. Yet the night was misty. It might rain.

She opened the papers. Ah, there was Craig! The half-cocked grin she knew so well. The amused eyebrows. The keen glance. Craig, with the face of a strange girl in an inset. No, it was the other way around, of course. The girl took up most of the space and Craig was the inset. She laughed hysterically. To her Craig's face filled the page, obliterated the girl entirely.

Judy controlled herself, checked the laughter that wasn't laughter but a harsh, brittle sound. This girl had no right on this page. She was pretty. Probably she was sweet and appealing. She could make Craig feel that he was as necessary to her happiness as roses are to June, or—butter to a baked potato. She smiled over the homely smile. This was Mary.

She picked up the other paper. She leaned forward in sudden interest. It was her own picture that graced the front page. She turned to the story. It related briefly that the young society man, stock broker and polo player, had unexpectedly wedded a radio entertainer just as the Rogers' fortune crashed. It went on to explain that society had been expecting an engagement between Craig and Judy.

Ronald Birrell would read about this! She sat up in shocked surprise at the thought. But what if he did? Why should she care? She never would see the man again. She wouldn't have to face his pity.

She tapped the dividing glass between her seat and the cab driver's and asked him to take her home. Once there, she undressed and lay for a long time in a warm bath in the great white tub in the big green and white bathroom that belonged to her bedroom. She was rested and calm when the telephone rang.

Someone would be offering sympathy about the money or about Craig. Maybe she wouldn't answer. Yet all of the time she was slipping into a negligee and slippers and crossing the floor.

"Hello," she said softly.

"Judy!"

Her heart turned over twice and began to roll down hill at the sound of that voice. Resolutely she grabbed the wandering cardiac organ and restored it to its usual place. So Craig had called her.

"Yes, Craig. But I thought you were out at sea.

"I will be in half an hour. That is, maybe I won't be. Judy, this is terrible! I just heard. I've been such a selfish galoot, all wrapped up in my own affairs today, I forgot you said that you needed me when you called, until I saw those papers a while ago. I've been calling you for an hour. Where were you?"

Where were you? So often he had asked that question, and she had answered for, even though she would not marry him then, somehow it had seemed his right to know.

"Just on an errand," she answered. An errand. Craig, that was all about you, she added silently. I wanted to read about your marriage in the newspapers. You see, I have to believe you are gone, since you are, and I can't—I can't . . .

"I'm so sorry about the wheel of fortune spinning in the wrong direction. What can I do to help, Judy, darling?"

"You're sweet to bother, Craig, but there isn't anything. We'll be fine."

"Of course you will be. Your father's one of the ablest men on the Street. He'll come back. But, just at the moment, what are your plans?"

She spoke carefully. "My father thinks it best for me to join my mother."

"Soon, Judy?"

"Almost at once." (Only I won't be taking a boat, Craig. I'll be packing my trunks and my books and prints and moving to a room somewhere, and hunting a job. Nobody will know it. Not you or my father or even Ronald Birrell.)

"I want to see you, Judy. May I drop by on the way to the boat?"

That would be wonderful—that would be terrible. . . . She hesitated. He spoke while she considered.

"I'm so sorry about the implications in the news stories, Judy. Everyone who knows us understands. But I was such a fool! I don't know why I plunged into matrimony this way. I should have done it decently and in order. But I didn't think you would need me."

"Do you love her, Craig?" Very gently Judy asked.

"Yes, Judy, I do." The simplicity told more than any lavish phrases might have done.

"Then be glad, Craig. Take love when it comes. I guess that's best. I'm just such a coward I can't believe it lasts."

(But I almost did, Craig—almost. I would have married you, had you waited a few more hours. Now I know I was right. Love doesn't last, unless you get your heart broken and then it hurts and hurts, the way mine is doing now. You taught me that, my dear.)

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Nothing Is Certain. By Harold Gray

APPARENTLY GUDGE HAS FOUND OUT ABOUT TREMENDOUS TRANSFER- I NOTICE HIS TRUCKS ARE ON HIS LOT, EXCEPT A FEW CRUISING EMPTY-
IS THAT SO? HADN'T NOTICED. FROM HERE IN THE OFFICE-
WELL, I SUPPOSE THE WAR WILL BE ON AGAIN NOW-- BUT IN THE MEANTIME WE GOT A LOT OF NEW BUSINESS THAT HE'LL NEVER STEAL AWAY FROM US-
I IMAGINE GUDGE WILL BE MORE VINDICTIVE THAN EVER NOW---AND DANGEROUS-
DANGEROUS? OH, AFTER THE LESSON HE HAD A WHILE BACK, I GUESS HE WON'T BE SO TOUGH- I'M NOT AFRAID OF HIM-
BY THE WAY, JACK- WHAT'S THIS SPECIAL ORDER HERE? JUST ONE LOAD BUT THE VALUE! IS IT DIAMONDS?
HA! HA! NOT QUITE. BUT NEARLY AS VALUABLE- CAN'T INSURE IT- GOT TO CHANCE IT- WOW! IF ANYTHING SHOULD HAPPEN TO THIS LOAD, I'D BE RUINED--- BUT NOTHING CAN GO WRONG- I'LL TAKE IT THROUGH MYSELF-

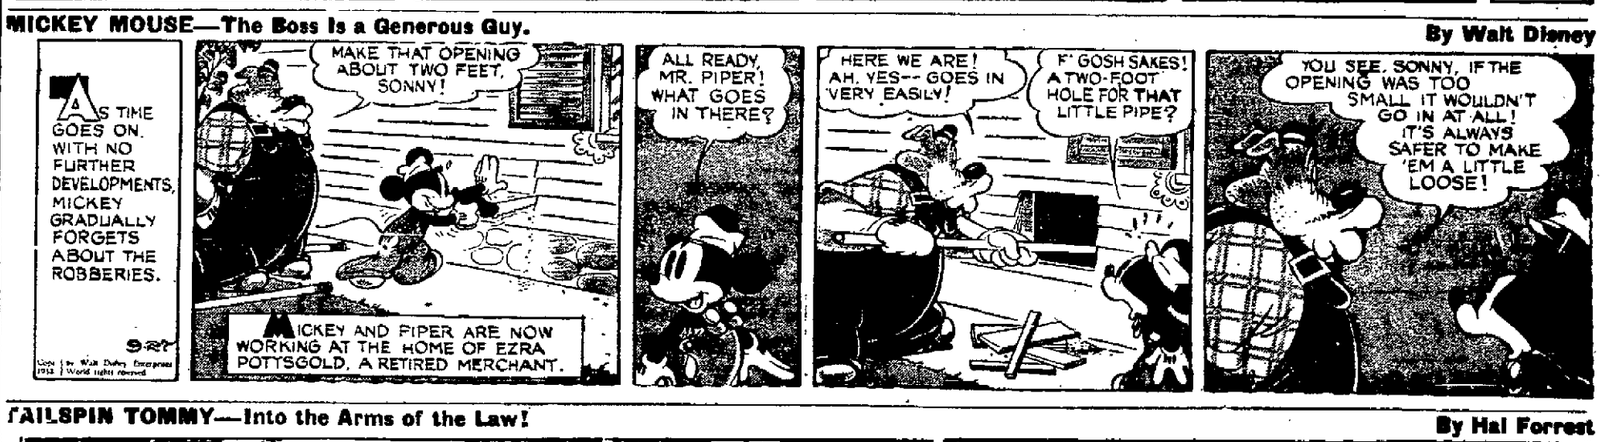
THE NEBBS—Love Is Great. By Sol Hess

HERE'S A LETTER FOR YOU, MR. NEBB- I HOPE IT'S THE ONE YOU'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR.
THAT'S IT I THINK, BECAUSE A FORTUNE TELLER TOLD ME I WAS GOING TO GET IT.
"DEAR STEVE" AND SHE SAYS DOWN AT THE BOTTOM OF THE LETTER, "YOUR LOVE AND RESPECT WILL ALWAYS BE A FINE AND LASTING MEMORY IN MY LIFE."
I NEVER GOT ANYTHING IN MY LIFE THAT MADE ME SO HAPPY- AND SHE CALLS ME "DEAR" STEVE AND SHE'S NO DECEITFUL WOMAN EITHER!

BRICK BRADFORD—In the Fortress of Fear. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

BETTER TAKE ALONG A COUPLE OF AUTOMATICS — THOUGH I DON'T SEE HOW THE OLD MAN COULD HAVE WIND OF OUR PLAN TO ESCAPE!
BRICK DECIDES TO ANSWER THE SUMMONS OF THE OLD MAN OF THE MOUNTAIN
I OUGHT TO BE AT THE AIRPORT AWAITING SAMSA AND MISS GALE BUT IF I DIDN'T ANSWER THE OLD MAN'S SUMMONS I'D NEVER PASS THE GUARDS THERE!
9-27
I HOPE SAMSA AND MISS GALE GET THERE O.K —
BRICK REACHES THE GATES OF THE PALACE
ANNOUNCE TO HIS HIGHNESS PILOT BRADFORD HAS APPEARED HERE IN RESPONSE TO HIS SUMMONS!
BRICK ARRIVES AT THE PALACE GATES FOR THE FATEFUL INTERVIEW
BUT WHAT IS HAPPENING TO SAMSA AND SORRY GALE IN THE MEANTIME?

MICKEY MOUSE—The Boss Is a Generous Guy. By Walt Disney



AS TIME GOES ON, WITH NO FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS, MICKEY GRADUALLY FORGETS ABOUT THE ROBBERIES.
MAKE THAT OPENING ABOUT TWO FEET, SONNY!
MICKEY AND PIPER ARE NOW WORKING AT THE HOME OF EZRA POTTSGOLD, A RETIRED MERCHANT.
ALL READY, MR. PIPER! WHAT GOES IN THERE?
HERE WE ARE! AH, YES-- GOES IN VERY EASILY!
F' GOSH SAKES! A TWO-FOOT HOLE FOR THAT LITTLE PIPE?
YOU SEE, SONNY, IF THE OPENING WAS TOO SMALL IT WOULDN'T GO IN AT ALL! IT'S ALWAYS SAFER TO MAKE 'EM A LITTLE LOOSE!

TAILSPIN TOMMY—Into the Arms of the Law! By Hal Forrest

I QUIT! I QUIT! BLAST YOU!
YOU BET YOU QUIT, MISTER RAT!
ALL RIGHT, MEN, LET'S GO!
AND OUTSIDE THE HOUSE THE OFFICERS DECIDE TO BATTER IN THE DOOR.
HERE'S A COUPLA KILLERS! ANOTHER ONE'S OUT COLD IN THERE! MY LITTLE PARD'S HOLDIN' A RIFLE ON 'IM!

WHAT ARE YOU SO HAPPY ABOUT- JIGGS?
I CAN'T PAY THE INSTALLMENT ON THE PIANO- AND THEY ARE COMIN' TO MY HOUSE TO TAKE IT AWAY--
SO LONG "CEMENT-HEAD"- I'M ANXIOUS TO GIT HOME AND SEE HOW ME HOUSE LOOKS WITHOUT A PIANO IN IT-
-BOO-HOO--- THOSE HORRID INSTALLMENT COLLECTORS WERE HERE AFTER THE PIANO--
WELL- I'M SORRY- BUT- MAGGIE- YOU MUST REMEMBER- THEY HAVE TO COLLECT WHAT IS DUE- OR ELSE TAKE THE PIANO-
I KNOW IT- I HAD TO SELL YOUR OVERCOAT AND OTHER SUIT TO PAY THEM- BUT- THANK GOOD-NESS WE STILL HAVE THE PIANO-

STEELS, MOTORS EDGE FORWARD IN STOCK LIST

Prices Jog Over Irregular Range as War Sentiment Blows Hot and Cold.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—War sentiment blew hot and cold in the stock market today and leading issues jogged over a slightly irregular range.

Steels and Motors edged forward, with U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors and Chrysler favored.

Improvement also was shown for Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, General Electric, Philip Morris, Kennecott and American Smelting.

Most foreign markets closed weak, but the "curb" market in London after the conclusion of official dealings, turned upward on rumors Hitler had agreed to extend the time limit on his ultimatum to Czechoslovakia. Sterling and the French franc hit new lows for the move in terms of the dollar. To obviate panicky selling, the London stock exchange established minimum prices below which government securities could not be liquidated.

Bonds were ragged and commodities, including grains, generally tilted downward.

While Europe held virtually all the attention in boardrooms before the opening, side glances occasionally were taken at domestic items.

Noted were figures of the Federal Reserve system disclosing debits to individual accounts, as reported by banks in leading cities for the week ended Sept. 21, were 11 per cent above the total in the previous week and only 7 per cent under the aggregate for the corresponding period a year ago.

In favor of the Rails were preliminary statements indicating a substantial increase in last week's freight loadings, with an estimate of around 700,000 cars made by some observers.

THEATER

NOT so long ago the pessimists were shouting the end of "super" productions in Hollywood, but the present budget for "Stanley and Livingstone" will be the biggest in the history of pictures. Zanuck has appropriated two and a half millions for it without counting the cost of Mrs. Martin Johnson's trek to Africa to get 100,000 feet of film for it. Perhaps Zanuck was encouraged by the success of his most recent "super," "Alexander's Ragtime Band" which has already grossed $3,000,000 at the box offices of the country. "Stanley and Livingstone" camera work is supposed to get under way Dec. 1 with Loretta Young and Tyrone Power in the leads.

Timely Subject.

No subject could hold more timely interest for movie audiences than the theme of "Too Hot to Handle," the Ohio theater attraction. Gable makes a live, believable character of the ace cameraman whose assignment is the world in general and who may be found wherever there is action. One of his assignments carries him to the center of the Japanese-Chinese war activities. And there he meets The Girl who is none other than Gable's old friend of several other pictures Myrna Loy. Walter Pidgeon is there too, to complicate matters.

Always Popular Story.

Peter B. Kyne's popular novel of a number of years ago, "Valley of the Giants" is one of the perennial picture vehicles, and its production this season with Wayne Morris and Claire Trevor is the third or fourth time it has been filmed. It is filled with red-blooded action, in Technicolor, which brings out the beauty of the giant redwoods of California. The picture is being shown at the Madison.

"Roberta" at Majestic.

One of the most popular of all the Astaire-Rogers pictures was one of their earlier ones. It was "Roberta" and assembled a cast of first ranking stars. Besides the dancing team, there was Irene Dunne, Randolph Scott and others. The picture, re-issued, comes to the Majestic today for three days. The second feature is "Time Out For Murder," with Gloria Stuart and Michael Whalen.

Glorifies Boy.

Glorifying the American boy is the theme of "Barefoot Boy," one of the two features at the new Park theater. An ideal player for the title role is young, clean-cut Jackie Moran, who had a small role in Deanna Durbin's latest picture, "Mad About Music." Jackie plays the kind of a boy that Dad would like to have his son believe HE was in the old swimming hole days. There's a pulse-stirring story with Ralph Morgan and Marcia Mae Jones.

HOPE OF PEACE BRIGHTENED BY NEW PROPOSAL

Hitler Reported Agreeable to Sudeten Delay as Result of British Offer.

remained in Berlin over night.

The British emissary was accompanied to the chancellery by Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany, and L. A. Kirkpatrick, an embassy secretary.

He was reported to have pleaded eloquently that where such a far-reaching agreement in principle already had been reached over the Sudetenland, the world should not be plunged into war merely because of differences over putting it into effect.

Emphasizing that they could not speak for Hitler, some Wilhelmstrasse commentators intimated that they thought Chamberlain's offer pointed a way out of the impasse.

They felt that if both Hitler and President Benes of Czechoslovakia accepted the British guarantee there would be no necessity for Germany to seize the Sudetenland next Saturday by force of arms.

Important Address.

Chamberlain's radio address was to be made from his rostrum in the cabinet room of his official residence at 10 Downing street.

It was listed for transmission from all British stations including a short wave sender for all parts of the empire, Canada and the United States.

In his talk, he was expected to enlarge on his gravely-worded statement of last night for preservation of the peace of the world.

The fact that he was to speak from his official residence indicated that the speech would be of historic importance. Usually government officials broadcast from studios of the government-controlled radio system.

Just 24 hours from the time of the broadcast, the British parliament will meet to hear Chamberlain's account of his two meetings with Hitler.

24 Hours After Hitler.

Chamberlain's radio talk follows by the same period of time, the impassioned address of Hitler to a huge audience in Berlin's Sportspalast in which he asserted he would not yield in his Sudeten demands, insisted on compliance by the Czechs with his demands by Oct. 1—a speech that bristled, but yet in which statesmen in other countries were reported to see a faint hope that war might be averted.

After studying the text of Hitler's address for an hour, Chamberlain issued a statement—an unusual step in itself—in which he assumed the responsibility for turning over the Sudeten territory to Germany, if Hitler would refrain from using force.

Chamberlain's statement said:

"I have read the speech of the German chancellor and I appreciate his references to the efforts I have made to save peace. I cannot abandon those efforts, since it seems to me to be incredible that the peoples of Europe, who do not want war with one another, should be plunged into a bloody struggle over a question on which agreement already has been largely attained.

"It is evident that the chancellor has no faith that promises made will be carried out.

"These promises were made not to the German government direct but to the British and French governments in the first instance.

'Morally Responsible.'

"Speaking for the British government we regard ourselves as morally responsible for seeing that these promises are carried out fairly and fully, and we are prepared to undertake that they shall be so carried out with all reasonable promptitude, provided that the German government agrees to a settlement of terms and conditions of transfer by discussion and not by force

"I trust that the chancellor will not reject this proposal, which is made in the same spirit of friendliness as that in which I was received in Germany, and which if it is accepted will satisfy the German desire for union of the Sudeten Germans with the reich without the shedding of blood in any part of Europe."

Ready For Action.

Before Chamberlain's statement however, the British government had let it be known that if Germany invaded Czechoslovakia to take over the Sudeten territory by force, France would go to her defense, and Russia and Britain would support France.

Further, it was reported that this commitment had been made known to Hitler.

Hence the situation seemed to be that if Germany marched into Czechoslovakia Saturday to enforce Hitler's ultimatum, Europe would be plunged into a general war in which Premier Benito Mussolini had now bound Italy to support her.

Complaint Against Benes.

The fuehrer's speech last night was mainly a complaint that Benes does not let his deeds live up to his promises. He insisted that Germany merely wanted what Czechoslovakia already had agreed to give after Britain and France had interceded with her.

Thus, with Chamberlain's guarantee behind Czechoslovak acceptance—assuming the Czechoslovaks accept under these conditions—Hitler can call off the threatening war without losing prestige.

Responsible German sources, however, made no secret of their displeasure at the British-French-Russian stand supporting Czechoslovakia.

Chancellor Hitler's own mouthpiece, the Voelkischer Beobachter, in heavy red type bannered "We Are Resolved!"

An editorial titled "The Last Word" drew the conclusion "the fuehrer's speech actually was the last word spoken by Germany in this conflict."

"Heute schluss machen! Heute schluss machen!"—"Settle it today, settle it today!" 25,000 loyal Nazis cried out as Hitler expressed his determination to settle the Sudeten issue once and for all, branded President Benes a liar, and shouted: "I have made an offer to Mr. Benes. It is nothing else than realization of what he himself has already conceded. He now holds in his hand peace or war."

Force Threatened.

The fuehrer, however, did not state how he would act should the Czechoslovaks fail to submit to partition in accordance with Hitler's "final" proposals

But extended praise of Germany's armed might, as one "which the world will respect whenever it makes its appearance," could have only one purpose—to strike fear of the German army in the Czechs.

Hitler boasted of "the best anti-aircraft equipment and best anti-tank equipment" in the whole world and an air force "that will protect the German people against all attack."

"Now we confront the last problem which must and will be solved," he continued, as millions listened attentively for a clue to his intentions in the crisis.

About Czechoslovakia he asserted: "This is the last territorial demand I have to make in Europe but it is a demand on which I will not yield."

SENIORS SELECT 3-ACT COMEDY

"The Youngest" To Be Presented By Graduating Class.

"The Youngest," a three-act comedy by Philip Barry, has been selected as the class play for the January graduating class at Senior high school, Earl Heasley, school dramatic instructor, announced today.

The play has a cast of eight characters. Tryouts for the production will begin Wednesday, and are open to every member of the class. Rehearsals will begin as soon as the cast has been selected.

No definite date has been set for the play but it is expected to be presented early in November.

reaction of each listener was, of course, couldn't be observed, but the difference of opinion was probably as wide there as on the street, where comment could be evaluated.

Hitler's speech probably drew more listeners than any other broadcast since that famous "At long last" abdication address to the world of former King Edward VIII of England in December of 1936.

As Hitler notified the world that Germany has a trained military force second to none in the world, a World war veteran who did a "stretch" in the trenches of Argonne said:

"Yeah, that's what the Kaiser said before!"

Several Mansfield veterans recalled that yesterday was the 20th anniversary of the beginning of the Meuse-Argonne offensive, one of the last big drives before the end of the war in which American troops took part. Fresh from victory at the St. Mihiel sector, the doughboys went over the top at dawn on Sept. 26.

Among the Mansfield men who were in the attacking line were members of the Rainbow Veterans organization and Company M of the 37th division.

LINSTER, DALEY RECEIVE AWARDS

SHELBY—Two Mansfield men received high trophy awards during the annual "stag" party at the Shelby Country club last night. C. J. Laser, general chairman of the affair, estimated about 200 men attended the party.

Nick Linster of Mansfield was presented the trophy for winning the president's cup golf tournament last summer by C. S. Huber, president of the club, during the program. John Daley, jr., of Mansfield, received the medal cup tournament award.

Other trophies were awarded the following tournament winners: president cup runner-up, Jack Tiffany; second flight winner Dow Horner; runner-up, Everett Tiffany; third flight winner, Jack Kennedy; runner-up, Gus Culbertson; fourth flight winner, Dr. Glenn Stewart; and runner-up, Cy Connelly.

LONDON—The British war office today imposed a censorship of newspaper photographs, prohibiting publication of pictures showing guns, troops or other subjects pertaining to military activities.

MANSFIELDER FALLS DEAD ON HUNTING TRIP, 5 SHOT IN OHIO

The hunting season claimed its first victim in Richland county yesterday afternoon when Orville S. Snyder, 60, South Diamond street road, died unexpectedly of a heart attack while hunting squirrels near Butler.

Acting Coroner D. C. Lavender said Mr. Snyder's death apparently was due to over-exertion and excitement induced by the hunting trip.

Another death from a heart attack and five shooting mishaps marred the first day of the squirrel season in Ohio.

Only one of the shooting victims was believed hurt seriously. He was Roy Morris, 25, of New Philadelphia, shot in the back by a companion who "thought his wool shirt was a squirrel." Others hurt yesterday were N. W. Robinson, 55, of Brinkhaven; Lester Brothers, 21, East Sparta; Jack Stillion, 18, Old Washington, and Hobart Cline, 13, near Gallipolis.

Denton S. Moots, 82, dropped dead of a heart attack while hunting alone near Bellefontaine.

Mr. Snyder, an employe of the county road department for the past 11 years, fell dead after he had stopped to rest under a tree on the Archie Stevens farm, his companions said

Born near Mansfield in 1877, Mr. Snyder spent his entire life in this community. He was a fireman for the Pennsylvania railroad for 17 years and then became a foreman for the county road maintenance division.

He is survived by his wife, Louise; five sons, Donald, Richard, and Robert, Mansfield; Raymond, of Rushsylvania, and Walter, of Columbus; one grandchild, three brothers and three sisters.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, with Rev. Paul H. Saleste, pastor of the St. John's Evangelical church, officiating. The burial place had not been determined today.

STUDY PROJECT

ASHLAND — Ashland county fair board members and county commissioners met Monday to discuss a PWA project to provide facilities which were lacking at the recent fair.

The board was expected to propose a new grandstand, larger than the present stand, a building for 4-H club exhibits and a horse barn. If a new stand is built, it will be located in a different place because the present stand faces west making spectators look into the sun.

UP TO CZECHS, HITLER REPLY TO ROOSEVELT

Tells President He Won't Be to Blame If War Breaks Out Over Demands.

sis the origin of these problems and their dangers are rooted.

"The German people in the year 1918 put down their arms in the faith that the conclusion of peace with the opponents at that time would bring a realization of the principles and ideals which were solemnly proclaimed by President Wilson and just as solemnly accepted by all the powers at war as binding upon them.

Promises Unfilled.

"Never in history has the faith of the people been more disgracefully betrayed than happened then and the conditions of peace forced upon the vanquished nations in the suburbs of Paris (Versailles) has fulfilled none of the promises given.

"On the contrary they created a political regime in Europe that reduced the vanquished nations to pariahs, stripped of all rights, and that was recognized from the beginning by all judicious persons as untenable.

"One of the points which most clearly revealed the character of the dictates of 1919 was the founding of the Czechoslovak state and the fixing of its boundaries without in any way taking into account history and nationality.

"Sudetenland, too, was included in it, although this region has always been German and although its inhabitants unanimously declared their desire for anschluss (union) with the German reich after the destruction of the Hapsburg monarchy.

"Thus the right of self-determination that was proclaimed by President Wilson as the most important foundation for national life was simply denied the Sudeten Germans.

"But that was not enough.

"In the treaties of 1919 certain obligations, which according to their wording were very far-going, were imposed upon the Czechoslovak state as regards the German radical element.

"From the very beginning these obligations were not kept.

"The League of Nations failed completely to carry out the task assigned to it, namely, to guarantee the fulfillment of these obligations.

"Since then Sudetenland has been engaged in heaviest combat for the preservation of its Germandom.

'Logical Demands.'

"It was a natural and unavoidable development that after the German reich regained its strength and Austria was reunited with it that pressure of the Sudeten Germans increased for maintaining their culture and for becoming closely associated with Germany.

"Despite the loyal attitude of the Sudeten German party and its leaders the points at issue between them and the Czechs became even more pronounced.

"From day to day it became more clearly evident that the government in Prague was not willing to grant most of the elementary rights of the Sudeten Germans.

"On the contrary it attempted to bring about the Czechization of Sudetenland with ever more forceful methods.

"It was inevitable that this procedure led to ever greater and more serious tension.

"The German government at first in nowise interfered with this development and maintained its calm restraint even when in May of this year the Cechoslovak government proceeded to mobilize its army on the pretext, manufactured of pure cloth, that German troops had been concentrated.

"The fact that Germany had at that time refrained from taking military counter-measures has merely served, however, to strengthen the intransigeance of the government in Prague.

"The progress of negotiations by the Sudeten German party with the government for a peaceful solution clearly showed this.

"These negotiations brought definite proof that the Czechoslovak government had no idea of tackling the Sudeten German problem really from its very foundation and to bring it to a just solution.

"As a consequence, conditions in the Cechoslovak state, as is generally known, have become entirely insufferable during the last weeks.

"Political persecution and economic suppression have plunged the Sudeten Germans into unspeakable misery.

"To characterize these conditions it is sufficient to refer to the following:

"At this moment we count 214,000 Sudeten German fugitives who had to leave their house and hearth in their ancestral homeland and who brought themselves into safety across the German border because they saw therein the only and last possibility for evading the revolting Czech regime of force and bloodiest terror.

Cabinet Meets to Discuss Crisis.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt called his cabinet into session today for a momentous discussion of what war in Europe would mean to the United States.

That war would affect all sections of American economy and raise innumerable legal and international problems has been accepted generally.

President Roosevelt warned people of this country, in his peace appeal yesterday to the leaders of Germany, Czechoslovakia, Britain and France, that:

"In the event of a general war they (the American people) face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of the consequences of such a world catastrophe."

The president had ready to lay before the cabinet the four enthusiastic replies to his peace message received from President Benes of Czechoslovakia, Premiers Chamberlain of Great Britain, Daladier of France and Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

Hitler's reply, a day later than others, came today.

American officials working for peace drew some encouragement from the hopeful tone of Benes' reply to the president:

"I believe that even today the dispute could be settled without resort to force."

Back Roosevelt's Appeals for Peace.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — (U.P.)—Presidents of four South American republics backed up President Roosevelt's plea for peace in Europe today.

They sent congratulatory messages to Mr. Roosevelt and cablegrams to Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia, appealing to them to seek a peaceful solution of the Sudeten German crisis.

Dr. Roberto M. Ortiz, president of Argentina, Dr. Getulio Dornelles Vargas, president of Brazil, President Arturo Alessandri of Chile, and President Oscar Raimundo Benavides of Peru, acted almost simultaneously. They gave the first official expressions of South America's attitude toward the European crisis, and voiced the unanimous opinion that war could still be averted by calm deliberation, and that a European war would jeopardize world civilization.

Says Roosevelt Plea Harms Peace Cause.

ROME — (U.P.)—President Roosevelt's "non-realistic and unclear peace plea," has harmed the cause of peace incalculably, Virginio Gayda, editor of Giornale d'Italia, said in an editorial today.

"The days of peace are numbered," Gayda wrote. "The peace movement is losing its vigor and clarity," he added, ascribing as his reasons:

1. President Roosevelt's message to Adolf Hitler and President Eduard Benes.
2. Announcement of British, French and Russian solidarity.
3. French and British mobilization orders.

probably have got a maximum of 2,500,000. When Germany mobilizes fully she may put another million into the field at once. But against her, unless all signs fail, will be hurled immediately 2,000,000 mobilized Frenchmen, with 4,000,000 more trained French reserves in the background, and all the vast, inestimable power of the Soviet red army.

In addition Britain's navy may once more set in action the weapon that eventually brought imperial Germany to her knees in the World war—the blockade.

Czechoslovakia listened to Hitler's speech in complete darkness. Prague was "blacked out." The nation was compelled to take into account the possibility of a knock-out air attack even while Hitler spoke.

But blacker than the night were the words they heard, shouted by a strained voice which, many observed, was for the first time in Hitler's career tremulous, and in its tone belied the firmness of his threat to plunge himself, his nation and all Europe into a war which every thinking man on this continent is convinced would mean the end of Hitler, the end of the Nazi party, the end of Germany.

This frightful future seemed to many here to have shaken the nerve of the man who has already created a greater German empire than ever existed before without firing a shot, and who now without fighting has been offered all he ever claimed he wanted.

The most fateful step, it was realized here, was fixing the ultimatum for Oct. 1, for now Hitler has cut behind him the bridge of possible retreat.

Once more, however, the Czechoslovak government in reply to Hitler's demands made clear that it is willing to consider even the Berchtesgaden proposals as a basis of further negotiations.

These were Hitler's original demands and, involving the loss of a large, strategetically vital strip of territory, were accepted by Prague only under the most extreme pressure of the allies.

Yet today, in the face of Hitler's final, dreadful menace, the Czechoslovakian government is willing to suffer partial amputation.

Probers Investigate Crash Which Killed 4 Marines.

QUANTICO, Va. — (INS) — A board of inquiry was named today to determine the cause of the crash last night of a large training airplane which fell in flames into the Potomac river, killing four marines.

Capt. John Wehle, West Point, N. Y., the pilot, and Corp. Robert L. Jonasson, Astoria, N. Y., were thrown clear of the plane just before it crashed into about three feet of water. Wehle is the son-in-law of Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired.

The big utility plane had just taken off on a night training flight when it failed to gain altitude, skimmed tree tops along the field and fell.

FAVORS WAR AID

Senator Logan Would Provide Materials, No Man Power.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Logan (D., Ky.) advocated outright repeal of the neutrality act today and a policy of making available to England and France "all the materials they need, except manpower" if they become involved in war.

The Kentuckian has been a consistent supporter of the administration in the senate. He is a member of the military affairs committee.

SEEK TO HALT INSPECTION OF TAX RECORDS

Defendants in Personal Tax Suit Ask Court to Dismiss Taxpayer's New Petition.

The defense counsel in two personal tax suits against the owners and administrators of the Black estates near Mansfield sought today to prevent inspection of county tax books by counsel for Michael Hallabrin, who filed the actions as a taxpayer.

A motion to strike the plaintiff's amended petition from court records was filed today in common pleas court by Attys. Weldon and Huston, representing Harry S. Black, defendant in one suit, and Donald S. Black and others as executors of the estate of the late Frank B. Black, defendants in the other

The amended petition, filed several months after the original action, seeks court authority to examine tax books for figures to use in the suits. In addition to the defendants, it named County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, County Treasurer John E Kolb and the state tax commission who are in charge of the tax records.

Injunction in Effect.

A temporary injunction, granted by Judge C. H Huston several weeks ago, enjoins the plaintiff's attorneys from examining the tax books. If the amended petition is ruled out, the plaintiff will not have access to the books at any time.

In their motion, the defense attorneys contend that the amended petition is entirely different from the original action and has no bearing on the case

The suits seek to require executors and owners of the properties to show how much personal tax they paid in the period from 1926 to 1930, and contend that tax returns during that period were incomplete

Similar suits involving the properties of J. A. Rigby and the late Burton K Preston were filed at the same time The temporary injunction against inspection of tax books also applies to them

MOTION UPHELD

Ouster Charges Against Trio Board Members Dismissed.

BUCYRUS—The court case asking ouster of four members of the Tiro school board was dismissed shortly before noon today by Judge Phil Weiland of Mt. Gilead on a motion filed by the Defense Attorneys, J. D. Spears and O. H Hilborn.

The motion said that the complainants failed to prove their allegations of misfeasance, nonfeasance and malfeasance and misconduct in office against J. W. Lake, J. W. Hanna, Homer Wilford and James Wiley.

The only witnesses heard today were R. F. Palfry, state examiner, and George Ahlman, the only member of the school board not named in the petition asking the ouster.

Seventy-six plaintiffs representing residents of the school district filed the original action as the result of a dispute over the purchase of a school bus.

ACCEPTS LOW BID ON PAVING

City Board Lets Contract to Mansfield Asphalt for Forest Avenue Job.

The city board of control today announced that it had accepted the lowest of four bids for the paving of Forest avenue from Marion avenue to Bartley avenue.

The board awarded the contract to the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company for $6,899.30. The contract calls for the laying of a concrete pavement and the construction of combination curbs and gutters. The contract was let yesterday by the board which consists of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist.

The Mansfield Asphalt bid was $199.30 lower than the offer of $7,098.60 submitted by George B. Herring on the same type of pavement. On the asphalt type surface the Mansfield Asphalt bid $7,746.30 and Herring $7,810.60.

Work on the project is expected to get under way within the next few days, Mayor Hunter said.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1938.

Fate of Europe Hangs In Balance.

OPINIONS vary greatly today as to whether war or peace is in store for Europe by the end of this week.

Saturday, October 1, stands ominously on the week's calendar as the date on which Adolf Hitler threatens seizure of Sudetenland, unless in the meantime it is peacefully delivered to him by Czechoslovakia.

Great Britain, France and Russia have taken what is apparently a firm stand against invasion of Czechoslovakia by Germany. Italy's Mussolini pledges support of Hitler.

Hitler's frenzied speech yesterday can be termed a rabble-rousing tirade or a supreme effort to stir national patriotism—depending on the viewpoint of the critic.

It could be defined either as an appeal for support in policies intended to preserve peace in Europe, and in the world, or as a bombastic threat to force a war in which Germany's dream of European domination from the Rhine to the Black sea would be accomplished by what Hitler boasts is superior military strength.

Commentators here and abroad are divided in their opinions. Some see the Hitler speech as offering a loophole for continuance of peace negotiations and a readjustment of Czechoslovakian boundary lines without war. Others see in it no such hopeful signs and predict that the week-end will bring an aggressive move that will precipitate war.

President Roosevelt's appeal for peace seems to have been given scant heed during the turbulent day in which attention centered on the Nazi Fuehrer who holds the fate of Europe in his power-maddened grasp.

While there has been a lapse of twenty years since the end of the World war, in which ten million men and women gave their lives, it cannot be escaped that present conditions in Europe link very closely with the enmities aroused by that conflict, and that the rise of Hitlerism from the wreckage of a futile attempt to create a German republic is also intimately associated with post-war bitterness.

History of a later time may even go so far as to regard the period between 1918 and 1938 as little more than a breathing spell for replacing of fighting forces and armament.

Whether, in the event of war in Europe, with Great Britain, France and Russia aligned against Germany and Italy, the United States would again be drawn into it, can be no more accurately foretold at this time than it could in 1914—for even as late as November 1916 Woodrow Wilson was re-elected president because "he kept us out of war."

Americans look with concern and sympathetic interest upon the trials and tribulations of the great mass of people in all of Europe's troubled nations, and regard with sorrow the thought that many lives would be sacrificed, and great destruction wrought, in the event that no way is found to avoid a war of such horrifying potentialities.

But America's greatest, deepest concern must be for honorable preservation of its own peace—and the thoughts of the nation, and of its responsible officials, should now be entirely in that direction.

Monthly Membership Meetings.

DECISION of the Chamber of Commerce to hold a series of monthly membership meetings, starting with a dinner-meeting at the Mansfield Leland hotel this evening, seems a worth-while effort to bring the membership of this organization into closer touch with its activities and plans.

Tonight's meeting will bring to Mansfield a speaker of national prominence, whose talk on "Community Building" will without doubt be inspirational as well as informative—some of the very things that everyone interested in the future of Mansfield should know.

A number of years ago it was a custom to bring the Chamber of Commerce membership together with considerable frequency, and with excellent results in increasing interest, activity and accomplishments.

Larger membership in recent years has made such gatherings more difficult to arrange, but the idea is a good one and continuance of monthly meetings should be encouraged by the largest possible attendance and participation.

Hydraulic Auto Drive.

A REVOLUTIONARY substitute for the regular gears and clutch of an automobile is announced by an English scientist, Prof. Frederick C. Lea, formerly of Sheffield University. The invention is credited to an Italian engineer, Piero Salerni, living in England. It commands attention because Prof. Lea says he has tested the device in more than 65,000 miles' driving.

It seems to be a rather simple substitution of an hydraulic pump and valve system for the usual gears. No detailed description is given, but presumably a revolving pump, driven by the shaft from the motor, transmits the power by circulating oil or other liquid through a system of valves adjusted for idling, varying speed and reversing, these changes being managed through a device corresponding to the usual gear-shift.

The idea is not entirely new. It has been considered in this country, but seems never to have been worked out practically.

See America First.

AN IMPRESSIVE evidence of the danger in Europe is the recent advice given by American consuls in Germany, along with consuls of other countries, that it is wise to go home. The advice is called "unofficial" but is none the less suggestive.

Many Americans have been recalling the summer of 1914 and the great rush for steamships, and the travelers' clearing house operated in London by Herbert Hoover, lending fares to stranded thousands who couldn't get funds from the banks to pay their passage home.

Remember that you can't drive a car after next Friday without a new driver's license. Requirement for new licenses—40 cents.

Some folks can't see a difference between "depression" and "recession"—they think that both mean "hard times."

Oklahoma has developed a 33-inch cow—contented milk from a condensed cow.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—From out in the farm belt come rumblings of a demand to be put before the next congress for a price-fixing program for crops.

In every period of slack prices the cry rises again for a law that will make it illegal for wheat, corn, cotton, rice, potatoes and what have you to be sold at a price less than it costs the farmer to produce it.

The department of agriculture long has placed price fixing as among the "short cuts to Utopia" which the president says does not exist. Orthodox economists consider price-fixing as sensible as jacking up the Pacific ocean so that ships can always run down stream. But farmers have their own arguments.

This correspondent has had them poured into his ear over many a tough steak in a country cafe.

Tabulated Evidence.

THESE farmers insist that tariffs from the beginning have protected manufacturing far more than the farmer. Representatives of the Grange have prepared tables to show that the tariff has protected farm machinery manufacturers so that they have been able to set up their own price fixing program. The result, they say—and demonstrate it by price tables—is that even though crop prices may slump 50 to 70 per cent, prices for machinery for planting and harvesting the crops drop only five or six percent. Price-fixing does it, they insist, and they want a share of it for themselves.

An "expert" can shoot economic theories at those farmers while he grows a two-day set of whiskers and they still won't be convinced. Price equilibrium, consumer strikes and such won't convince, nor do warnings that high prices bring ever increasing crop surpluses and ever growing difficulty in handling the surpluses. Many country congressmen will tell you that they have had to speak up for farm price-fixing as the price of political happiness.

In the last session of congress a farm price-fixing bill introduced by Senator McAdoo of California fell by only six votes in the senate, 46 to 40, after the administration applied heavy pressure on its loyal supporters to stop the bill.

The Farm Act's Fate.

AN HOUR'S browsing about the department of agriculture will bring plenty of assurance that some officials there expect a price-fixing drive to make real headway next session. Some sorrowfully admit that the present whopping crops of wheat, corn and cotton have nullified many of their arguments for continuance of the present farm act. Instead of price-fixing, the act depends on crop control and subsidies to get their prices from the farmer.

Basically all price-fixing plans now discussed are the same. They propose that a "cost of production" price be fixed as the minimum for that part of the crop which is sold to domestic consumers (you and me), and that the surplus be dumped on the world market for whatever price it will bring.

Usually each contains a provision for a federal subsidy to the farmer to be paid from the federal treasury to help compensate him for that part of the grain sold abroad at low prices.

The bills may not make sense but they've got support.

MAKE SURE THE STEPS ARE STRONG

Primaries Over, Fighting Starts

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nominating primaries being out of the way, the congressional campaign now narrows down to a fight between Democrats and Republicans for senatorial, representatorial and gubernatorial victories in November.

National interest centers on the senators. The gubernatorial contests are local in their character.

For that matter, they're distinct from the congressional conflict. Not that the Republicans don't hope to win with an additional governor here and there, or that the Democrats don't hope to keep all they've got. Still, a governor is relatively small potatoes according to Washingtonian reckonings. As for representatives, collectively they're as important as senators, but individually they're too numerously involved to keep track of. There has been a focus of the limelight upon a very few representatorial spots, like Congressman John O'Connor's New York district, Maury Maverick's in Texas and Howard W. Smith's in Virginia, but generally speaking, representatives don't signify much personally—though they do signify a lot wholesale.

Senatorial candidates, however, have their respective retail values—some of them quite considerable.

LONG WAY TO GO

For example, if Representatorial Candidate A defeats Representatorial Candidate B in some comparatively unknown district, nobody hears of it outside that particular bailiwick.

Illustratively, it would take, at present, a landslide of representatorial victories and defeats to attract an impression. Indeed, the Republicans probably will gain some Democratic representatives' seats in November. They say they'll gain 70. The Democrats deny that. Their story is that the Republicans will gain only 20 or 30.

"Pooh, pooh," remark the Democrats, "on a mere item of 20 or 30."

Even should the Republicans gain their 70 seats, they'll remain in a hopeless minority.

The truth is that practical political leaders don't like excessive majorities.

Over-majorities almost always split, as "pro" and "anti" New Deal Democrats have split recently, and as Republicans used to split, when they were too majority-conscious.

My belief is that such experienced tacticians as Postmaster General James A. Farley would like to see an evener Democratic-Republican division than today's. Not that I think Farley really desires a Democratic reverse—but I do think he can see what might have its possible Democratic advantages.

I doubt that President Roosevelt agrees with him.

Well, they're different. Farley is trying to lead a party. Roosevelt is trying to lead a society and civilization. Essentially they're as far apart as Senator George W. Norris and ex-Senator James E. Watson.

SENATE'S DIFFERENT

All this relates to the House of Representatives.

The lower congressional chamber can be diluted by 20 or 30 or 70 new kinds of members—beneficially, perhaps, by Republicans.

But a Republican candidate can't be elected to a senate seat against a Democrat without widespread "repercussions." The Republicans contend that they are due to effect some of these readjustments. They can't settle anything this year—but maybe, as to 1940.

The Republicans not only have been in a minority for the last half dozen years. They have been in too hopeless a minority.

The Democrats wouldn't mind seeing them pick up a senatorial seat or two.

In short, the Democrats would like to see a few more Republicans.

The Democrats would like to have a trifle more opposition. They don't admit it, of course.

But there's a necessity for some opposition.

Opening Door of Unknown.

The super-microscope whose invention by two young German scientists has been announced has implications of almost incalculable moment to medicine, science and industry. By utilizing electrons instead of light rays, the Germans claim to have an instrument which will magnify 100,000 times, which is a score of times more powerful than ordinary microscopes and makes eight-power binoculars seem but toys.

Man has improved the telescope and microscope, but many stars and viruses still elude his vision. The causes of cancer, the common cold, influenza and some other ailments have not yet been located with the most powerful lenses. The molecular behavior of metals, human metabolism, digestion of food and a thousand other fields still are marked by questions unanswered.

A microscope which will enlarge an object's appearance 100,000 times tests the human imagination, while the new world it endeavors to open is full of secrets of the utmost importance to man in all his living—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Health Advice

Metabolism as a Basic Function.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE central thing that we do is to make our muscles move. Of course, it would be more logical to say that the central thing we do is to think. We are going to discuss that later, and will reserve the debate until then, simply saying that movement of muscles is what all the processes of digestion and respiration and circulation are formed to produce. Digestion gets from food energy for the muscles, respiration gets oxygen to produce the spark, the circulation brings them together to the muscles, where the energy is to be utilized.

That, of course, is not all there is to this process of metabolism. But the muscle makes a typical unit to study the processes of metabolism or nutrition.

The movement of the muscle, the thing that does the work, depends on the metabolism of sugar. Most of the sugar in the body comes from the starch in the food. In order to make a muscle contract, glucose sugar has to unite with oxygen in the body of the muscle itself.

When the muscle begins to grow or hypertrophy because there is more work to be done, then is protein required for metabolism.

In contracting, the muscles require certain minerals to be present in the surrounding blood in order to function smoothly. A lack of calcium will cause a purposeless contraction called "tetany," for instance. And vitamins affect at least the nerve impulses, if not the muscle fibers themselves.

So in this apparently simple process of the contracting of a muscle, we have the utilization of all the foodstuffs absorbed in digestion except fat. And it is quite possible that the metabolism of fat plays some part in muscular contraction. From a study of the tension of muscles in which the carbohydrate had been reduced by insulin convulsion, Myerhof and Gemmill concluded that part of the total energy is supplied by other material than carbohydrate, and that material must be fat.

Metabolic changes, of course, go on in other organs, and the fundamental foodstuffs and minerals are used by the brain and the bones and the visceral organs, as well as the muscles.

All of these metabolic processes may go wrong—each one in its own field. If carbohydrate mechanism fails, diabetes results. If fat metabolism goes wrong, obesity or emaciation ensues. If protien metabolism goes wrong, there is gout. The minerals also produce disease by not conforming their proper function—we have already mentioned tetany as a result of calcium deficiency, and it is easy to recall iron deficiency as a cause of anemia.

In regulating all these intimate central processes, the vitamins in the food, and especially the secretions of the ductless glands are regulatory.

For the student of medical science, however, it is essential that the three functions of digestion, respiration and metabolism be considered as a unit.

"Break It Up!"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MANY'S the time you can learn more about Living from some bit of sidewalk slang, than from a ton of tedious tomes. Take, f'instance, that current command—"BREAK IT UP!"

Smart stuff, that, for handling a mob of young hoodlums when they block the traffic . . . or a crowd oy hysterical weaklings when they run amuck—. . . driving them apart, scattering them around, before they can get control.

Good police stuff. Good character stuff, too . . . if you know your human nature. For this "BREAK IT UP!" technique doesn't merely apply to bums . . . it's Big Medicine for what ails us all—the guaranteed cure for all the cowardice and cussedness, hate and hurt and heartbreak of our muddled mortal life.

But how? Why should the line that works with a bunch of heels, also be law for regular, everyday mortals?

Because that's what an everyday mortal actually is—A HEEL AND HOODLUM, INSIDE. ....

That notion surprises you, maybe. You've always thought of yourself as a single person with a definite personality, haven't you? But you aren't a person—YOU'RE A CROWD. A crowd of different feelings, and separate desires—some good, some bad, some strong, some weak, all jammed in together, encompassed by one skin.

NOT PLAIN BILL JONES OR SALLY SMITH. BUT HATE AND FEAR, GREED AND COURAGE, PRIDE AND LOVE, ENVY AND FAITH, KINDNESS AND GENEROSITY ALL SEALED WITHIN ONE BODY THAT BEARS BILL'S OR SALLY'S NAME . . .

And sometimes we manage to keep control of this heterogeneous mass of hell-raisin' innawards, right from the start. Riding herd on them as a wise cop rides . . . with an eye on the Weak Members and the Wrong Numbers, so they won't collect and accumulate — Never letting anything start—

Never letting the little, foolish lies . . . the small, brief sprees of laziness and hypocrisy . . . the secret spite . . . the vanity we thought no one suspected . . . the hidden, shameful streak of cruelty . . . never letting these hoodlums of the soul once get together.

Sometimes we manage to keep our secret mobs in hand. But sometimes the crowd gets the bulge on us. A little coddling here . . . a little outburst of temper there . . . and before we know it, the hoodlums are out of control. That habit you thought was so harmless has become a raving Fiend! That self-indulgence you hardly noticed, has you down and out for the count! You're no longer an orderly, reliable human being—

YOU'RE A MOB RUN AMUCK!

All because you didn't cry—"BREAK IT UP!" before it was too late!

"BREAK IT UP!" This isn't a sermon, stranger—it's a Straight Tip from Headquarters. "BREAK IT UP!"—before you take the count like one of those raddled wrecks you pass.

That bitter-mouthed woman with the empty, angry eyes—

That fumbling man, with the hang-dog crouch and the smeary, furtive smile—

They didn't set out to be that way. They didn't want to be that way. They didn't dream they were getting that way—

IT WAS ONLY WHEN THE GANG IN THEM RUN AMUCK, THAT THEY REALIZED THEY'D BECOME THE THING YOU SEE—

Ten years ago—or five—or only one—they could have saved themselves by crying "BREAK IT UP!" to the vicious traits that lurk within us all.

But they didn't see . . . they didn't understand . . . that a man, within one skin, could house a mob! And the rats they tolerated, once, are master, now.

"BREAK 'EM UP" . . . before the hoodlums turn and BREAK YOU UP.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Much has been recently and wisely written on the interchange of actors between the two great English speaking drama centers, London and New York.

I do not purpose to add to this debate.

Nevertheless, if one weren't conscious of the true conditions as they exist today a pertinent reminder would be to look at the records of American plays and actors on Piccadilly during the last year as against the plays and people of British origin which have sought public favor on this side.

When a New York producer desires a British star for his play he simply hires him, knowing that the only restrictions imposed will be the usual ones of immigration. This means, if he can clear Ellis Island he will be eligible for a Broadway appearance.

IT IS not so easy as this on the other side. Your British producer has the very dickens of a time clearing away official red tape when the presence of an American actor is deemed advisable over there. The governing body of Piccadilly very rarely sanctions employment for a foreign actor unless the producers are able to prove that this particular actor is essential to the welfare of the play. If a British actor can be found who can substitute for the American, the plea is denied and the American must look elsewhere for work.

Of course Equity has the real say in New York as to who shall work and for how long they shall be employed, but Equity in most instances is charitable and lenient, and if an actor is in good standing, and is desired by a producer in good standing, little difficulty is experienced gaining the official sanction.

Naturally I hope that all good plays and all deserving actors get the chance some day to play before their English speaking cousins. But in the same breath I hope no retaliatory measures are ever considered if the English just won't meet us half way.

For the Broadway drama would certainly lose if the English blood were drained away. We think a lot of Noel Coward over here, who has made fortunes both here and in England. And, by the way, did you know that every penny he has ever made in America is still over here, in American banks and enterprises?

And we think a lot of Sir Cedric Hardwicke, who has served so superbly this last season in "Shadow and Substance." We think much of many fine British actors and actresses who annually visit us in intelligent and entertaining make-believe, and it is not too much to say that if they were denied us the New York stage would be far less satisfying than it now is.

DENNIS KING, star of "I Married An Angel," current rave on Broadway, is English born, and so is Frederick Leister, of "Bachelor Born." Without this sanction we would not have George Bernard Shaw, or Gertrude Lawrence, or Leslie Howard or any of a score of other affable and able Englishmen who have meant so much to American entertainment.

I think I am as American as the next man, and I am ambitious for the American theater to prosper, both here and abroad. But to alieniate foreign talent simply because we are finding it tough to make progress ourselves on certain shores would, it seems to me, be idiotic. As someone else has said, this would be as silly as a German regiment goosestepping off a 20 story building, crying "To hell with gravity," because an Englishman happened to discover it.

A Farmer's Diary

Lost, Strayed or Stolen.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A FRIEND of mine finished threshing about noon, and rounded out his strawstack. That afternoon a windstorm came along and blew the pile of new, unsettled straw over against the barnyard fence. Passing, after the storm, I joshed my farmer friend a little.

"Some folks can't build a straw stack well enough to stand even one short day," said I.

He laughed, and pointed to some large, uprooted trees. "When God Almighty can't keep his trees in the ground durin' a big wind," he said, "how d'ye think I could build a stack that'd take it? It can't be did."

Two days later my friend advertised the loss of three pigs and some ducks. He didn't actually accuse anyone of taking them, but they had magically disappeared from the premises, and he had no way of accounting for it.

Some time passed, one day I stopped, and saw the farmer and his son clearing away the last of the straw that had blown over during the storm. The boy hauled the loaded wagon out into the field. As his father and I stood there by the heap of straw, we heard noises underneath it. "That sounds like hogs," he exclaimed.

Hurriedly, we dug away the solid heap . . . came a slight movement, and a familiar grunt, and a hog, lank and weak, wobbled slowly from beneath the straw, followed by another . . . and another. We watched in amazement. Then, from the rim nearest the large stack, five bedraggled white ducks waddled slowly, single file, down toward the familiar watering place.

The farmer rubbed his eyes, and scratched his head. "I can't believe it," he admitted. "They've been shut up in there for twenty days—no twenty-two, come Thursday. An' I'll be honest with ye, I accused a certain party, who has a reputation—even went up there and looked his place over, but didn't find hide, hair nor feather o' my stock. Reckon I really oughta go up again—an' 'pologize!"

RECEIVES FEES

City, County Get $33,000 in Motor Vehicle Revenue.

Mansfield and Richland county today received $33,098 from the state in the third quarterly distribution of 1938 motor vehicle license fees.

The allocation, which must be used for construction and maintenance of roads and streets, included $25,323 to the county road department and $7,775 to the city of Mansfield.

Frank West, state registrar of motor vehicles, said the allocation, totaling $3,022,171, in the state, boosted distributions for the year to approximately 80 per cent of the total amount due the counties and cities.

Allocations to other nearby counties and cities included:

Ashland county, $10,236; Ashland, $2,475; Crawford county, $11,392; Bucyrus, $1,700; Galion, $1,450; Knox county, $10,546; Holmes county, $4,803; Huron county, $12,342; Morrow county, $5,179 and Mr. Gilead, $450.

WRITES OF EX-MANSFIELDER IN 'WOMAN OF THE WEEK' SERIES

A former Mansfield woman was the subject of a full-page feature story with pictures in the women's section of the Cleveland News Saturday when Mrs. Amy Carpenter Douglass was presented in a series of articles on "The Woman of the Week."

Mrs. Douglass, daughter of the late Reid Carpenter, and a sister of Mrs. E. R. Hartman and Mrs. John Hattery of this city, returned to Mansfield last season as a guest artist for the Community Players' production of "First Lady." She formerly played with the Community theater group here.

The article in the Cleveland paper centers largely around her activities with the Cleveland Play House. Her first appearance this season with the group will be in Noel Coward's "Fumed Oak," which opens tomorrow night. She will also play in "Hands Across the Sea."

She is pictured in her attractive home on Chestnut Hills drive. "Her home has a lived-in, comfortable look, as well as being a handsome setting for her," says Polly Parsons, Cleveland News writer. "It sprawls on a hillside surrounded by lush, but not too-cultivated vegetation. And it will probably continue that way for 'no matter what I plant it always comes up magenta phlox,' says the mistress of the house.

"She smokes and the rough attractiveness of her voice comes, she says, from the back of her throat. She spent the summer swimming at the Shaker pool in Cumberland, at Lake Chautauqua and at her own summer spa at Chaska beach. . . . Is terrifically proud of Reid and Betty, her two youngsters. Reid is entering Hudson academy this fall and Betty is at Roxoboro. . . . Claims to be fresh out of husbands and not looking for more, having been divorced in 1936. . . ."

Mrs. Douglass was divorced from Dr. Marion Douglass, Cleveland brain specialist, two years ago and before that was the wife of the late Spencer Black. Both were Mansfield men.

Since going to Cleveland in 1930 she has been interested in the work of the Play House, serving on the women's committee, directing and acting and in the making of commercial motion pictures. She is a confirmed knitter, knitting in theaters while she watches motion pictures, and makes swank knitted garments for her friends.

"Her career," says the story, "is not a last stand against the wolf at the door, but something she loves and devotes a great deal of energy to continuing it."

4 OF 9 AGENCIES SHARING IN FUND LIST BALANCES

Report for 1937-38 Period Shows Hospital Leads With $6,800.

Four of the nine agencies sharing in the Mansfield Community fund finished the 1937-38 period with a balance, four ended with a deficit and one broke even, the annual report of the fund released by Sidney L. Palmer, executive secretary, showed today.

The report revealed that administration expense, including salaries, rent, supplies and campaign expense was $4,379.89, or less than one-tenth of the entire budget.

The four agencies ending the year with a balance were the Visiting Nurses, Salvation Army, General hospital and the Boy Scouts. Showing a deficit were the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Friendly House and the school milk fund. The Community Memorial completed the period within the amount received.

Has $12,000 Balance.

General hospital which received $6,839.80 from the fund showed a balance of more than $12,000, according to the report.

Without the contribution from the fund which was used to care for 394 emergency cases, the hospital still showed a profit of $5,300, the figures showed.

The Visiting Nurses who provide bedside care without cost to indigents received $7,094.40 and ended the year with a balance of $443.

The Salvation Army received $5,427.85 and had a balance of $148, but still had unpaid bills in the amount of $119 when the report was compiled.

The Boy Scouts received $6,192 and finished with a balance of $350.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. which received $6,796.47 and $6,747.75 respectively, each reported deficits, the former $226 and the Y. W. $2.

Friendly House was given $7,719.36 and finished the year with a deficit of $13, while the school milk fund which furnishes milk to school children who are undernourished received $1,024.25 and wound up $895 in the red.

The only agency to balance at the end of the year was the Community memorial which received $227.57 from the community fund, $46 from other sources to balance the expenditures of $273.

PLAN TRIBUTE

Methodists to Honor Galion Woman, Benefactor of Aged.

The North-East Ohio conference of the Methodist church will pay tribute Oct. 9 to Edgar F. Allen, founder of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children; his wife, Mrs. Blanche Wood Allen, and Mrs. D. C. Boyd of Galion, a Benefactor of the Elyria Home for the Aged

A tablet erected in memory of Mr. Allen who died in Elyria in September, 1937, will be unveiled at ceremonies which will be held at the Elyria Home for the Aged, an institution supported by the Methodist church.

At the same time there will be a memorial service for Mrs Allen and Mrs. Boyd who spent a greater part of their lives in service for the institutions for the crippled and aged

Mrs. Boyd, a member of the board of trustees of the Home for the Aged for a number of years, died about six weeks ago

Mr Allen was president of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children and the International Society for Crippled Children

STANDARDS SET FOR BUILDING

FHA Completes Nation-Wide System of Requirements for Home Construction.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Federal Housing Administration has now brought to completion a nation-wide system of minimum standards of small home construction, Administrator Stewart McDonald announced today.

Minimum construction requirements for new dwelling in Arizona, New Mexico, and the District of Columbia have gone into effect. These were the last areas for which special standards had not yet been drafted. The new minimum requirements in all states supplant a set of general construction standards which applied to the nation as a whole, following more than a year of research in local home building problems.

"With these requirements in effect in the District of Columbia, Arizona, and New Mexico," McDonald said, "the Federal Housing Administration is now established as the only agency in the country which has a nation-wide influence on home construction practices. It is our belief that these carefully drafted standards will continue to have a marked effect in raising the general quality of building in all parts of the United States. This is in line with one of the major purposes of the National Housing Act, namely to encourage improvement in housing standards and conditions.

"We have carefully refrained from making these stanards either so high as to freeze out new construction or so low as to be out of step with our avowed intention of improving housing conditions. Our influence in this direction does not place any undue burden upon builders and contractors but establishes a minimum below which construction must not fall if the builder expects to finance the sale of such properties under the insured mortgage system.

"Our standards do not work any hardships on the man who is already well on the way to home ownership, any more than they restrict the action of any reputable builder. Quite to the contrary, they represent construction standards which home owners and builders themselves would most willingly adopt."

PAINTING STUCCO HOUSES

Brick and stucco houses should be painted not only for appearance's sake but to prevent the entrance of destructive moisture. During cold weather such moisture is likely to freeze and cause damage. Certain types of unpainted brick may absorb from ten to thirty percent their weight in water.

Brush on a New Roof!

THE best roof in the world must some day begin to show its age. But a single application of Carey Asbestos Fibre Coating will add years of service.

Low Financing Cost

The Carey Finance Plan provides easy payments—as low as $5.00 per month. No Down Payment—No Mortgage—3 years to pay. Let us explain this simple plan to you without obligating you in the least.

PAINT RADIATORS

To make your radiators withdraw into the background, paint them the same tint as the wall color. Use flat paint. Glossy paint—like bronze or other metallic paints—tends to reduce the flow of heat and should therefore never be used. There are special brushes now available with which the painter may reach otherwise inaccessible portions of the surface to be coated.

PAINT ROOFING

Roofs of buildings which are covered with asphaltic or bituminous coatings are usually difficult to paint unless a primer is first applied to prevent the asphalt staining through. Until recently, aluminum varnishes of an emulsified alkyd type—thinned with water, are found to give equally satisfactory results. These primers are applied over the asphalt or bituminous covering—followed by paint of the same type or with a paint having an oil or varnish base. Pigmented alkyd emulsion paints are likewise ideal for coating prepared roofing shingles—which are quite likely to contain bituminous substances—when it is desirable ot change their color to lighter shades.

WHITE, BLUE BUNGALOW

A small one-story bungalow may be made very attractive by painting the body of the house white with delft blue shutters and black sash. For the roof, Venetian red is effective with the other colors.

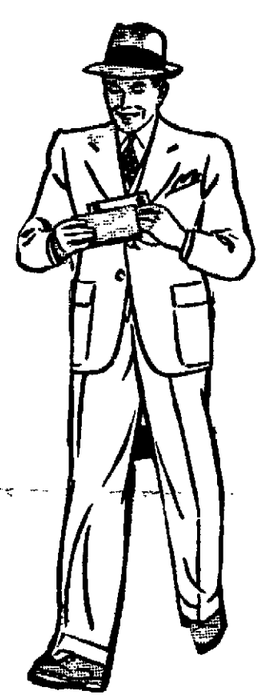
What One Builder Said



"My House Sold Quicker and for More Money, Because I Had Gas Heat"

"Other houses on my street have been on the market for months, their prices have been cut, and still they don't sell. My house sold easily, and at a good price. I'm convinced that the reason is that I had automatic gas heat. Everybody seems to know about and want this clean, comfortable way to heat. It's carefree, and the one really modern system. Gas heat makes my house more valuable and about ten times more clean and comfortable."

LAND IN COURT

2 Men, 3 Women Arrested in Police Raid, Fined.

Two men and three colored women caught in a police raid on an East Sixth street rooming house Saturday night received fines ranging from $25 to $100 when arraigned in municipal court yesterday.

The four who were charged with disorderly conduct gave the names of Mrs. Minnie Morgan and Naomi Kimmel, both colored, and Paul Nollart and Fred Marts. Ludi Green, colored, was charged with harboring disorderly persons.

A $50 fine assessed the Green woman was suspended on condition of good behavior when she pleaded guilty. Mrs. Morgan was convicted on the conduct charge and was fined $100 and costs. Her fine was suspended on the condition that she leave the city within 48 hours.

The Kimmel woman and Nollart both were fined $25 and costs while Marts forfeited his bond of $25 when he failed to appear in court.

FIRST FACTORY

The first varnish factory in England was erected in 1790. Although varnishes had long been in use, not until 1773 was it thin enough to be applied with a brush. Previous to that date, varnish was a thick substance applied with a knife or with the fingers. In the year 460 B. C. Herodotus described the making of varnish from oil of cedar and turpentine, mixed. This varnish, used on mummy cases, is still in perfect condition.

CITIZEN EXAMS GET UNDER WAY

49 Foreign-Born Residents Given Final Test Today at Courthouse.

Forty-nine foreign-born residents of Mansfield and Richland county were to appear before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston and L. E. Fox, federal immigration official, at the courthouse today as they sought citizenship in the United States

Representing 13 nations, the candidates for naturalization presented their arguments for citizenship at hearings before Judge Huston, with Fox, federal examiner from Youngstown, questioning the applicants. Hearings opened at 9 a. m. and were expected to continue most of the day.

Witnesses testified pertaining to character of the candidates, and the applicants were required to pass an examination which included questions on American history and government.

Applicants who received court approval will get their citizenship papers at a reception within the next week.

Nearly one-third, or 17, of the citizenship candidates were from Yugoslavia. Nine were born in Rumania and five in England. Other nations represented include Italy and Hungary, three each; Sweden, Greece, Poland and Czechoslovakia, two each; Bulgaria, Switzerland, Germany and Albania, one each.
